SHARP ANGLO-ITALIAN VOLTE FACE

Tension Over: Now On Very Friendly Terms

A sum of approximately $2,700 was raised yesterday by street sales of flowers on behalf of the Society for the Protection of Children. Picture shows a pretty Chinese helper. ("Herald" photo).

BAD WEEK FOR GAMBLERS

London, Yesterday. Commodity speculators who sustained huge losses during the week, left the City to-day in disgruntled mood and at a loss to explain why commodities, hitherto regarded as the easiest way to get rich quick, should have turned round so suddenly and sharply.

Some operators are even suggesting that the fall was inspired by the British and American Governments, who were admittedly perturbed at the previous rising trend of commodities.

This is scouted by well-informed quarters, who stress the fact that an unwieldy speculative position has been built up in commodities during past months.

MARKETS STAGGERED

Many speculators are people with very limited reserves and when the markets staggered under the gold scare, they were compelled to sell, thereby releasing an avalanche of stop loss orders on the market, where consumers generally are holding off.

Wheat was particularly weak owing to cessation of German and Italian purchases and bearish American crop news, and many other commodities were being sold to raise funds to meet losses sustained in wheat. Pending outcome of the various settlements, nervousness persists on all markets.—Reuter.

GRAVE CLASH AT WARNSDORF

Warnsdorf (Czecho-Slovakia), Yesterday.

A clash between Sudeten Germans and Social Democrats took place here to-day when the latter invaded a meeting of the Sudeten Party which was being held in a beer hall.

Over 30 were wounded, some of them seriously, before the police could restore order.

Several women in the hall were roughly handled, one of them jumping out of an upstairs window and receiving severe injuries.—Trans-Ocean.

Rome Impressed By British Bilbao Impartiality

(SPECIAL TO THE "SUNDAY HERALD")

ROME, YESTERDAY.

A REMARKABLE CHANGE HAS SUDDENLY TAKEN PLACE IN ANGLO-ITALIAN RELATIONS, POLITICAL CIRCLES IN ROME DECLARING THEM TO BE "EXTREMELY FRIENDLY," ALTHOUGH UP TO A FEW DAYS AGO A HIGH DEGREE OF TENSION EXISTED BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTRIES.

This amazing reversal is declared to be due principally to the fact that Italy recognises in the British attitude towards the blockade of Bilbao by the Spanish insurgents an earnest endeavour to remain impartial.

BRITAIN, ON THE OTHER HAND, HAS BEEN HIGHLY GRATIFIED BY THE CONCILIATORY SPIRIT DISPLAYED BY ITALY IN THE NON-INTERVENTION COMMITTEE THIS WEEK, INCLUDING HER READINESS TO DISCUSS THE WITHDRAWAL OF NON-SPANISH PARTICIPANTS IN THE CIVIL WAR.

Franco-Italian relations, on the other hand, show no signs of improvement, and the Italian press continues its vigorous campaign against the Blum Government.

ATTACK ON DELBOS

It is asserted that M. Blum and his Government are "under the absolute control of the Communists" and that the French newspapers are adopting an extremely unfavourable attitude to the London non-intervention committee, whose policy would "probably lead to a compromise with General Franco if it were not for a French check to any possible move in this direction."

The more Radical Italian papers even go so far as to declare that the French Foreign Minister, M. Yvon Delbos, is making an obvious attempt, "with the help of various influential foreign groups, including the Vatican," to prepare the way for a completely new Spanish Government patterned after the French Popular Front Government.

This would be more in keeping with French interests, the journals say, than a military dictatorship more inclined to lend a friendly ear to English proposals.

A report in the Paris "Information" that General Franco is planning to resign his position as leader of the insurgent army and devote his attention to political tasks, is declared in Rome to have been inspired "by French hopes rather than by facts."—Trans-Ocean.

European Cooperation Outside Geneva

Berlin, Yesterday.

"An example of practical European co-operation outside the League of Nations" is the enthusiastic reception given by the "Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz" to the decision of the non-intervention committee to bring the Spanish control plan into force on Monday.

"In spite of the many and varied difficulties," says the journal, "definite results have been obtained."

A note of criticism of the plan, however, is mingled with the paper's eulogy of the committee's determination.

The journal thinks that in its present form, the plan is not entirely adequate, control of the Spanish land frontiers being especially inadequate.

The number of inspectors on the Franco-Spanish frontier should be increased, while the problem of preventing foreigners entering Spain with false passes has not been solved.

The journal, which usually expresses the official viewpoint, reiterates Germany's intention to stand by her commitments under the plan.—Trans-Ocean.

TUESDAY TO BE BUDGET DAY

London, Yesterday.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, will place the Budget before the Cabinet on Monday afternoon, but the public will not know its contents till Tuesday afternoon, when the Budget will be presented in the House of Commons.

The sum of £30,000,000 will have to be found to make up the deficit, and there is much speculation as to what form of taxation will be used to make up the amount.—Reuter.

160,000 In One-Day Sympathy Strike

Glasgow, Yesterday.

The 160,000 men who walked out yesterday in the one-day "sympathy" strike in the City, beside shipbuilding and engineering yards, returned to work this morning in full capacity.

The workers had gone on strike as a gesture in support of striking apprentices in the Beardmore works.—Reuter.

Mary Llewelyn Mystery

WHAT IS THE SECRET BEHIND THE RETURN OF THE BRITISH STEAMER, MARY LLEWELYN, TO ST. JEAN DE LUZ AFTER SETTING OUT ON A BLOCKADE-RUNNING EXPEDITION TO BILBAO?

Mystery surrounds her abandonment of the project and there is a suspicion of British official intervention.

One version of her return (says Reuter) has it that the Mary Llewelyn met with bad weather and, as she was not equipped with wireless, was compelled to run before the gale.

STOPPED BY DESTROYER?

Another report, however, states that the vessel met a British destroyer which told her what attitude the British Government would take in her adventure should she encounter difficulties at the hands of the insurgents.

The captain of the Mary Llewelyn will give no indication of what exactly happened.

FOOD SHORTAGE

The problem of food supplies, in view of General Franco's blockade of the Basque coast, is becoming acute in Bilbao and other ports in the hands of the Spanish loyalists.

The Minister of Agriculture in the Basque Government is holding a meeting with members of the Valencia Government to discuss the situation.

None of the British ships loaded with food, now tied up in St. Jean de Luz harbour, is likely to try and run the rebel blockade.—Reuter.

GOLD WARNING

DANGER OF METAL INFLATION

London, Yesterday. Following last week's rumours over the price of gold, which the "Economist" dismisses as patently absurd, the paper investigates the long-term prospects of the metal.

At present the price of gold is high enough to give producers a generous profit and also stimulate the releasing of stocks being hoarded in India.

Demand is confined to a limited number of government funds and central banks who are prepared to buy without limit at generous prices.

GOLD INFLATION?

The "Economist" raises the question as to whether the world is drifting to a state of gold inflation, and says, furthermore, that the problem of the mal-distribution of monetary gold has become more insistent.

The obvious remedy, the paper states, is for buyers either to reduce the price or refuse to buy without limit.

World opinion is apparently not convinced either of the danger or of the imminence of gold inflation.

CONCERTED ACTION IMPOSSIBLE

While gold is hidden in exchange funds, concerted action against gold inflation is impracticable. The paper considers it possible that the central banks might be unable indefinitely to absorb the flood of new gold.

Meanwhile, the journal advises expedients in case of need, such as use of the bank rate in open market operations, reversal of the recent gold economy and, ultimately, restoration of gold as a medium of circulation.—Reuter.

Cooler Weather Forecast

The Royal Observatory reported last evening that a moderate anticyclone over Manchuria and N. China is extending slowly southward. The depression is moving E. N. E. across N. Japan.

Forecast:—E. winds, moderate, freshening later; fine to cloudy; somewhat cooler.

SULTAN SHOCKS TRADITION

ENDS LOVE--KEEPS CROWN

MILAN, YESTERDAY. A SERIOUS HITCH HAS SUDDENLY DEVELOPED IN THE ROMANTIC ATTACHMENT OF THE JAVANESE SULTAN OF DJOKJAKARTA FOR THE BEAUTIFUL 19-YEAR-OLD DAUGHTER OF A GREEK SHIP-OWNER, MISS NADYA VLASSOV.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, who is the Sultan's sovereign, has stepped in with an ultimatum to the Royal would-be bridegroom.

She has told him that if he marries a European girl he must forfeit his throne.

Rumour has it that the Sultan, who is reputed to already be in possession of a considerable harem in the Netherlands East Indies, chose the throne.

DREAM SHATTERED

During the week, it was stated that, although Queen Wilhelmina at first objected to the proposed marriage, she later withdrew her opposition following the Sultan's threat to abdicate.

It was reported that the young couple, whose romance developed during the winter sports at St. Moritz, had planned to get married in Milan and honeymoon on Lake Maggiore.

Now the dream has been shattered and the Sultan will return to his native land still "single."—Trans-Ocean.

EXTRALITY IN CHINA

Bar Association Takes Up Matter

Shanghai, Yesterday.

Agitation for the abolition of extrality in China, fanned by the Montreux Conference on capitalizations in Egypt, is spreading.

The Bar Association throughout China and the Press Association of Hankow are among the latest organizations to petition Nanking to take steps in the matter.—Reuter.

RECORD NET PAID SALES

A new circulation record for the Colony was established by the "Sunday Herald" last week, when the total of net paid sales was 7,990 copies.

On the previous Sunday, April 4, the total net paid sales was 7,807 copies, giving an average for April of 7,898 copies.

The average for the last six weeks has been 7,570 per issue.

Lord Craigavon To Resign?

London, Yesterday.

The early resignation of Lord Craigavon, Premier of Northern Ireland, is predicted in political circles in London.

Belief is that he will relinquish his post, at about the same time as Mr. Stanley Baldwin, shortly after the Coronation.

At the present time, Lord Craigavon, whose health has not been good recently, is on a cruise in the West Indies and is not expected to return to Belfast until the end of April.

Captain H. Dixon, M.P. for East Belfast, and Sir Basil Brooke, Minister of Agriculture in the Ulster Parliament, are mentioned as likely successors.

STYLE POINTS

Attention Centres On Colour And Detail

Paris. PRE-COLLECTION rumours that colour would play an important role in Spring fashions have been justified by the first Paris showings. Black and navy, the old conservatives, are still used for daytime, but navy, so far, is superseding black to a large extent. The big news, however, is the extensive use of bright shades. Creed definitely features vivid pastels, such as orange, red, turquoise and coral, for town suits. He has a whole range of warm yellows and beiges. Black and navy are seen in this collection, but invariably relieved by some bright shade. Colour contrasts are almost as important as single vivid shades, and they are effected in new ways.

Creed, for instance, puts burgundy-red revers on a walnut beige jacket. He carries the colour scheme further with a burgundy-red blouse and hat; a vestee in red is attached to the front of the skirt, giving it a high-mounted waistline. Narrow dark green bands are used to pipe a short fitted jacket in beige suede that is worn over a green skirt. Creed employs coloured piping in many ways—at the wrists, the collar, the closing and even at the hem of jackets. He also successfully introduces colour contrasts in double revers; one is of the fabric of the jacket, the other in a contrasting material and colour; a navy blue wool suit has both navy wool and blue linen lapels. This designer also shows triple colour alliances, such as a black skirt with a yellow jacket and a prune blouse. Vera Borea is another couturier who likes vivid colours, particularly employed for short coats or jackets worn over dark skirts or dresses. Striped blazers and wraps in bright yellow or raspberry rose over dark frocks are seen at this house. Stripes are staging a reappearance. Another fashion that will undoubtedly be seen this Spring is the navy or black dress with a jacket in a vivid colour—as bright as the wearer chooses to make it.

Vera Borea's Plaids

Colour is significant, not in plain fabrics exclusively but in patterned ones as well. Vera Borea is using Lesur's "pastel plaids" for jackets and coats. She shows them over plain skirts. The plaids are not in faded shades but in warm tones, frequently with mauve and purple predominating. Ohez Heim, which has opened a special department, under the direction of Mme. Lyolene, for jeune filles, one finds real Scotch tartan plaids making many frocks. Full-length redingotes, either in wool or in a new souple gros-grain from Colcombet, are featured by Creed. These coats are usually double-breasted—fastening up to high-pointed or rounded revers—and fitted to the waistline, below which there is flared fullness at the back; some are belted, on others there is a half-belt. Gros-grain is a fabric that may very well become a runner for Spring, for coats, short jackets for day and evening, for blouses and also as trimming notes. Creed uses chevrons for yachting coats and glass-alpacas for evening capes and tailcoats.

KEEP FIT

The Women's League of Health and Beauty

(Second of a series of exercises to be published weekly in the "Sunday Herald")

THE HIPS

THE hips are usually the most annoying part of a woman's figure. They insist on increasing, however much she pulls them in with corsets or rubber bands. These methods are useless, because unscientific, and they can never be permanent in their effect. Corsets or rubber bands, by heating and weakening the skin and by preventing movement, throw two of nature's most valuable aids to slenderness (the skin and movement) out of action.

The spine rises out of the hips. If the spine "telescopes" into itself, as it does in the case of the untrained body, it naturally brings the weight of the body down onto the hips. This makes them spread in all directions.

Then, again, if the habit of standing on one leg and allowing the other leg to sag is persisted in—and this habit is almost universal among young girls and older women—the hip grows out at one side and very often the shoulder-blade at the other, for obviously the spine becomes curved, if the base from which it rises is uneven.

At least 70 per cent. of modern girls have spinal curvature more or less strongly marked. They are quite unaware of it. On their mothers devolves the responsibility of recognising it. If their mothers had X-ray eyes, as every mother should have, and used them to good effect, it would be noticed that the tilt and twist of the pelvic basin leads to internal tension in the abdominal organs which lie behind.

I believe that this twisted hip is the first cause of many cases of "appendicitis" which occur so often in young girls about the age of seventeen when developing organs need space, which the tilted hip denies them. Internal pressure is the unsuspected cause of many kinds of delicacy, delicacy not only at that age but all through life.

Many women think that by dieting to keep these rebels—the hips—slim, but movement is the chief requirement. Of course some slight result in the circumference is bound to be observed if a woman drops the habit of eating far too much and only eats a little too much. If, however, she makes a mistake and eats a little too little, she will lose the essential exercise to the digestive organs explained in the chapter on diet.

There is a deep-lying fat as well as external fat, and it is that which is deep-lying which is hard to root out. It remains untouched by any external means such as rollers and massage. These are both excellent for surface effects and delightfully soothing, but exercise is the only method of permanently attacking the internal layers, and developing the light, buoyant poise which comes as a result of scientific training, a training which gives the maximum result in minimum of time.

Certain exercises to be given next week are designed to give the hips as much power of movement as possible. When this power is attained a light swinging walk, which is nature's corset-maker, becomes possible. This reduces the hips at every step, and will be described in the section on walking.

"I was struck with that myself, Miss Maud, and I have found that nearly every girl in the class is now having 'California Syrup of Figs' regularly. 'I always find that the bowel cleanliness that this brings, promotes good appetite, vigorous health and regular school attendance. You will agree with me that good health and sound education go hand in hand.'"

"What a pity all mothers do not realize that when their daughters are approaching their teens, thorough and regular bowel movements are of vital importance to their normal development. 'California Syrup of Figs' is so gentle and safe in its action that it is the ideal laxative for girls of this age."

"At such a time it is a mother's duty to make sure that her daughter's bowels are clean and free from poisonous waste matter and many an anxious mother has thanked me for pointing out the value of the regular weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs.'"

Be sure to get the genuine "California Syrup of Figs."

The Rev. J. D. MacLean
Examines What He Believes To Be

A Man's Religion

The test of religion is whether it is a man's religion. Those who can see behind the tortured face of the modern Church know that she is slowly learning that that is true, and that she is painfully struggling to infuse this new meaning into her ancient formulas, to be able to give again to mankind some sort of clue to the truth they seek. But the truth which men are seeking is that which will enable them to live "at home" in their lives, a truth which will not be limited even by the boundaries of all the world, a truth which, to say the least of millions, but it is not a man's religion!

Religion is what a man makes of his own experience. The fundamental problem of his life is not whether the universe makes sense, but whether our experience in it makes sense. Has his life any meaning, and if it has, is its meaning coherent with all meaning? Does it unite him with an ultimate sense of value? Does it relate him to God?

Man's Own Discovery

A satisfying religion is appreciable by the sense of gratitude for his experience of life which it creates in him. And no religion is worthy of the name unless it enables a man to say in the face of all outward circumstances, "Thy will be done." This resolution of his experience is only complete when it issues from him in spontaneous love and goodwill.

Religion is the one thing in life which a man need not wander the world in search of. It lies within him. The seed of religion is in every man. It has been likened to "a grain of mustard seed, which is less than all seeds. But . . . grove up and becometh greater than all herbs." But this seed, this knowledge is not religion. There must be a man's discovery of this seed and his labour to cultivate it, his suffering and loneliness to bring the seed to fulfillment. A statement of how another found this seed and labour to it to grow, such as is embodied somewhat fancifully in the Apostles' and the Nicene Creeds, is not a religious experience, and is no criterion that a man accepting it, is a religious man. The confession of such creeds, at the honest most, is only a statement of adherence, and the efforts made to procure such adherence through preaching and the Eucharistic celebrations are only valuable in so far as they indirectly discover to others the facts of the experience of Jesus, and the knowledge that what he was, others may become.

Floundering

The tragedy of the modern Christian Institutions is that those responsible for their organisation have been content with men's adherence to their confessions, and now when that adherence is becoming meaningless to increasing numbers of people every day in every land, and are floundering about amid their own dogmas with which they are no longer satisfied themselves, there yet remains a few faithful adherents to the erstwhile interpretations of the creeds who "stand appalled" and "look to the Church to proclaim the foundations of their faith in clear, specific, unmistakable terms, and to insist on the vital necessity for its personal application." There is the source of the failure of the modern Christian institution. In the past the Churches claimed to be the guardians and dispensers of Christian faith and truth; they gave, they withheld, they blessed, they excommunicated, they handed out the substance of the faith for the personal application of those who accepted their authority. But now, their blessing is no longer sought and their excommunication no longer feared, and their struggle and agony for rebirth are described as being "almost totally oblivious to the terrific import of their own message."

Adherence to a creed and an ethical code associated with that creed, is not, never has been, and

Has Life Any Meaning

Has life any meaning to-day? That is the question which modern man is asking in a thousand ways, and by that he does not mean has the world any meaning, or is there any meaning in the stars. But, what is the meaning of my own life in relation to all other things and other people, and if it has any meaning, how can I establish the significant relationship, what must I do? The answer of the old dogmatists to that question was, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved!" And that, being interpreted, meant that the world was essentially evil and that man was essentially evil, but that God, in His mercy, had sent Jesus to die for that evil so that man might, if he chose, take for himself the atoning merit of Jesus' death, and being saved thereby, be able to live a life well-pleasing to God, even in this evil world, and have as his reward the glories and blessings of a paradise after death. Such, broadly speaking, is how the old dogmatists and their modern followers rationalised truth and the life of Jesus — "God is love." "Love one another." "It seemed much easier to believe this creed and to ask the adherence of others to it, than to attempt the incredible happiness and holiness of Christ. But that is what men must attempt if they would have meaning in their lives and sanity in their world. They must come to know the goodness of life in God, and they must live out that knowledge in all their ways."

The Wrong End

But that knowledge must be a man's own discovery. It cannot be given to him. That it can be given to him is a false idea, a Pharisaic idea which is arrived at by looking without instead of within. That a man must look within, is quite clearly, the teaching of Jesus. It was the Pharisees who knew the form of religion to which Jesus should have adhered, but which he refused for his truth's sake and for love's sake. It is for this reason that we must relinquish forever the hope of reviving the Christian Churches in some manner which will claim the support of men. To hope for such a revival is to pray for a repetition of the past nineteen hundred years, and that surely is to approach our difficulty from the wrong end. But we will have a Church, we must have a Church, indeed it is impossible to escape having a Church, a religious community, if we are religious. To have religion is to have community which must express itself and which needs no construction of artificial conditions for that expression.

Reluctance To Mortify Herself

The Church will grow out of man's new religion, it will be the social expression of the truth that is in him, and not the rationalised expression of an historic experience. The reason why I stated last week that I believed that it was outside the power of the existing institutions to take the initiative in bringing into being this new society, which is as old as Jesus, is that despite her tortured countenance, despite her present agony and suffering, the Church still reveals a seemingly invincible reluctance to mortify and purify herself and her dogma with the truth that was Christ, the truth enshrined in his command that we love one another. An amalgam of traditional orthodoxy and political reaction such as has been exhibited by certain Churches of various denominations in recent years, is utterly insufficient. There must be a turning inward, not of the Churches in Hong Kong, nor anywhere, but a deep heart-searching and self-examination of every sincere individual who truly desires "the bread of life." And he must search within himself because only there will he find the seed which he can cultivate to provide the satisfaction which he seeks. The discovery of this truth, if he accepts it, will reveal to his mind and issue in his life in what has been called "brotherhood", what certain idealists choose to call "communism". Here a man comes to the point where he loves not an impossible idealisation of his fellows, but loves man as man, spontaneously, without hope of reward here or hereafter, but simply because love, as a river, has risen in his heart and must find the sea, which is the love of God.

Native Delight Of Children

FOOD "WASHED" WITH PURE AIR

Constantly Circulating

in the Modern Air Conditioned Refrigerator

Certain stored foods pass off impurities, unpleasant in odor, which are quickly absorbed by other foods. Thus food, to remain impurity-free and to prevent decay, must be kept in air that is constantly purified as well as chilled. Cold alone is not enough!

The new OLYMPIC ICE Refrigerator, utilizing SIX-SIDED REFRIGERATION, keeps vitalized fresh air constantly circulating around your food. It "picks up" odors and impurities, carries them to the melting ice film, where they are absorbed and eliminated through the drain pipe. Food odors cannot interchange!

Too, the new OLYMPIC Air Conditioned Refrigerator maintains the correct balance of moisture in the air, preventing foods from drying out. Foods retain their natural flavors, juices and vitamins.

Our Ice Service Man will gladly demonstrate the new OLYMPIC Refrigerator.

BILBAO BLOCKADE

Rebel Fleet Concentrated Along Coast

London, Yesterday.

A confident claim is made by the Spanish insurgents of their ability to entirely bottle up the Republicans in Bilbao and to prevent any consignments of food and munitions reaching the besieged from the sea.

THE FOLLOWING UNITS OF THE INSURGENT FLEET, SAYS A COMMUNIQUE ISSUED IN SALAMANCA, ARE PARTICIPATING IN THE BLOCKADE OF THE BASQUE COAST:

CRUISERS — ESPANA, BALEARES, CANARIAS AND ALMIRANTE CERVERA.

THREE AUXILIARY CRUISERS.
TWO SUBMARINES.
ONE MINELAYER.
TWELVE HYDROPLANES.

Meanwhile, Madrid, says a radio agency report from that city, regards with "complete indifference" the control plan which comes into effect on Monday.

The Republican Government considers the control measures will be absolutely ineffective and objects to participation in the scheme of German and Italian warships.

ESPIONAGE ARRESTS

From Paris comes another report of a series of arrests in Madrid following discovery of an espionage circle.

Among those arrested, says the report, were a lieutenant of militia and a telephone operator at the War Ministry.

SUBMARINE SALVAGE

A message from Cadiz says that an insurgent salvage steamer has succeeded in raising the Republican submarine sunk by rebel warships last December.

The submarine was towed into Cadiz on Friday and is still seaworthy enough to be added to the rebel navy.—Trans-Ocean.

(Special To "Sunday Herald")

London, Yesterday.

Both the Labour and Liberal opposition seem determined to give the Government no peace on the question of the "Surrender" to the insurgent blockade of the Basque coast, and yesterday again saw Ministers being heckled in similar fashion to Thursday's rowdy session.

First speaker for the Opposition was the Labour leader, Major Clement Attlee who asked the Foreign Secretary if he was in a position to make a further statement, in view of the fact that the British consul in Bilbao had reported that the entrance to the port was free from mines and that the Basque coastal batteries were fully able to protect ships in territorial waters.

MISAPPREHENSION

Mr. Eden, replying, stated that Major Attlee was apparently under a misapprehension, since the British consul's report did not give that official's own view of the situation but merely transmitted to London information given him by the Basque Government.

The Liberal veteran, Mr. Lloyd George, intervened and asked Mr. Eden whether he had established contact with the Admiral commanding British warships in Spanish waters.

"Has the Admiral," he demanded, "stated whether the actual situation on the Basque coast is as stated by the Basque Government?"

Mr. Eden answered that the British Government had no other information than the report of the British consul, and pointed out that it was extremely difficult to obtain authentic information from other sources in the Basque region.

PROTECTION ON HIGH SEAS

It-Comm. R.T.H. Fletcher, Labour member for Nunceaton, then asked the Foreign Secretary what steps the British Government were taking to advise British merchant ships that ships sailing from Spanish ports could count on the full protection of the British fleet.

Mr. Eden: "British merchant ships have been informed by public announcement of the Government's intention to afford protection to British ships on the high seas."—Trans-Ocean.

GORDO HILL TAKEN

Madrid, Yesterday.

The Republican Defence Committee announces to-day that in future all Government communications will be released exclusively from Madrid, and not from Valencia, Bilbao and other places.

Publication of communiques in various centres previously had been necessary owing to the difficulty in maintaining telephonic communications between the capital and the other fronts.

Now complete communication has been restored through Republican Spain.

A communique issued to-day says that only minor skirmishes have been reported from the various fronts.

Loyalists are now reported to be in possession of Gordo Hill and several small towns in the vicinity.

A rebel plane was shot down by the loyalists during this action.

On the Basque front, the Republicans repulsed several insurgent attacks on the town of Alava.

UNITY IN CATALONIA

From Paris it is reported that the efforts of the President of the Catalan Generalitat, Senor Companys, have at last succeeded in bringing about an agreement between the parties represented in the last Cabinet and the labour federation.

A new Government has been formed, with Senor Companys as Premier and Finance Minister.

The Catalan Leftist Party holds three portfolios in the reconstituted Government, the Socialist-Labour federation four, and the anarchist-labour federation four.—Trans-Ocean.

Annexation In North China?

Tientsin, Yesterday.

It is persistently rumoured in political quarters here that the Japanese military leaders have completed plans for the annexation to Manchukuo of the East Hopei and North Chahar "autonomous regions."

—Our Own Correspondent.

Ten Couples United In Mass Marriage

The third local mass marriage ceremony, under the auspices of the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association, took place yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Association.

The Hon. Dr. H. H. Kowall, LL.D., C.M.G., presented the ten couples with marriage certificates after which he made a short speech wishing them happiness and success.

The following were the couples as they came up to the platform for their certificates: Tsang Tak-ming and Miss Chan Wan-yu, Pang Kwai-fu and Miss Ko Chik-sing, Lu Kam-tee and Miss Chan Bin-man, Tang Chung-ming and Miss Chu Yuk-dan, Fun Yuk-chau and Miss Lau Chi-ting, Li Yau-man and Miss Ko Po-yung, Ho Chun-yau and Miss Yip Eng-shi, To Ping-nam and Miss Lu Sze-mui, Cheung Mui-chung and Miss Liow Mui-yung, and Chan Yuk-kwan and Miss Chan Tak-chi.

"NAVAL BATTLE" OFF BISCAY

Merely Another Piece of Bluffing

London, Yesterday.

"Merely another piece of bluffing," is the description applied by the Gibraltar correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph" to reports that the Spanish Republican fleet was steaming to the Bay of Biscay to engage the insurgent navy.

"Nothing has been seen of the loyalist ships," the correspondent continues, "and it is most unlikely that they will take such a venture some step since they have neither bases nor harbours on the Atlantic coast."

In the meantime, insurgent headquarters in Salamanca state that Republican attacks on the Aragon front have been repulsed, while all is quiet on the Madrid front.

Low clouds and heavy rain have hindered air and land operations on the Biscay coast.

REBEL SEEKS FRENCH SUPPORT

In Paris, "Le Jour" says that Count Romanones, a former Spanish Premier, has written to Premier Leon Blum pleading for French recognition of General Franco's Government.

Two-thirds of Spain, the writer points out, are in the hands of the rebels, and there is no reason for withholding recognition.

"If France does not recognise the Franco Government, she will have lost the friendship of the Spanish people for many years to come," he concluded.—Trans-Ocean.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Franks left for home yesterday in the Cathay. Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Wallace were passengers in the same liner.

PREMIER ON TASK OF EMPIRE

Cabinet Ministers' Speeches On World Affairs

(SPECIAL TO "SUNDAY HERALD")

London, Yesterday.

The many acute international problems confronting the world to-day were discussed at length in addresses last night by the Premier, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Home Secretary, Sir John Simon, and the First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Samuel Hoare.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE TASKS OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE WERE THE SUBJECT OF MR. BALDWIN'S ADDRESS, WHICH WAS BROADCAST.

THE PREMIER EXPRESSED GRATIFICATION THAT THE BRITISH EMPIRE HAD STOOD FIRM DURING THE LAST TEN TURBULENT YEARS.

The links connecting the various States composing the Empire, he said, had not been loosened.

"The British Empire's foremost task to-day is to take the lead in spiritual matters, since no other country or group of countries in the world is so eminently fitted for leadership in this respect," he stated.

CONTROL IN SPAIN

The general foreign political situation, particularly the Spanish problem, was critically examined by the Home Secretary, Sir John Simon, in an address at Southampton.

DANGEROUS DRIVING CHARGE

Foreigner's Inefficient Brakes

P. W. G. Cameron, who is charged with driving car No. 1390 in a dangerous manner in Queen's Road East on April 13 and with having inefficient brakes, appeared on remand before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning and was defended by Mr. J. T. Prior, who pleaded not guilty on the first charge but admitted the second.

Sergeant Cameron, in evidence, said that on that day the defendant's car passed him near the Grand Theatre and was travelling at the rate of 25 miles an hour. When about 75 yards in front of him, the witness saw a Chinese cross the road at a medium pace. The man was struck by the defendant's car, which swerved to the left.

On arriving on the scene of the accident, Sergeant Riddell was already there. Witness measured the distance from the injured man to where the car was and found it to be about 67 yards. The case was adjourned till April 27.

CHANGED HIS ADDRESS

Japanese Fined For Non-Notification

A fine of $25 was imposed on Shipichi Hasegawa, a clerk, by Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy for failing to notify the Police of his change of address.

Sub-inspector Edwards said that the defendant had been staying at 41, MacDonald Road since September, and it was only a report that the Government were remembering the premises, which were used as the mess of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, that it was found that the defendant was living there.

The Home Secretary expressed gratification that the London non-intervention committee had now fixed the date when international control of the Spanish frontiers and coasts was to become effective, thus ending the first important phase of its labours.

Sir John declared that the chances of successful solution of the problem of withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain were now looking far brighter than they did some time ago.

"If this problem is solved," he said, "the non-intervention committee will have accomplished its foremost task, that is, elimination of all foreign influences from the Spanish civil conflict."

NAVAL ARMAMENTS

Speaking at the banquet of the Royal Association of Naval Architects last night, Sir Samuel Hoare declared that there was still time to avoid a race in naval armaments.

The First Lord expressed gratification that a contest between Britain and the United States for naval supremacy had become an impossibility.

"Conclusion of the Anglo-German naval pact," he stated, "was an important step forward towards prevention of a race in naval armaments, and there is no reason why a similar amicable agreement should not be concluded between Britain and other countries."—Trans-Ocean.

CONCERT AT ST. ANDREWS

In Aid Of Pakhoi
Leper Mission

The St. Andrew's Fellowship of Youth held a very enjoyable concert at the Church Hall last night in aid of the Pakhoi Leprosy.

The following artistes contributed to the programme:—Miss Ethel Banker (piano), Mr. Derek Gaubert, Mr. Leslie Millington (Black Magic), Mr. Francis Houghton (piano-accordion), Mr. Ralph Dormer (vocal), Mr. Jack Mount, Miss Pauline Jeffreys, Mr. Derek Gaubert, and Mr. Norman Broadbridge (saxo). Messrs. Dudley Passmore, Clifton Large, and Miss W. Robinson.

Chik So-chai, fook of a jewelry shop at No. 177, Queen's Road, East, was the victim of a clever fraud. In his report to the Police he said that an unknown Chinese entered the shop and asked to be shown some rings. One was selected and the would-be purchaser put it on his finger. Suddenly he shouted "Fire" and while every one rushed to see where it was, walked out of the shop.

HUNG HOM SMASH SEQUEL TO "NIGHT OUT"

"I THINK THAT ANYONE WHO DRIVES A CAR AFTER DRINKING, DOES SO AT HIS OWN PERIL. IF, UNFORTUNATELY, YOU ARE UNABLE TO STAND MORE THAN A FEW DRINKS, YOU SHOULD NOT DRIVE CARS," SAID MR. K. HARNETT, SECOND MAGISTRATE, YESTERDAY, IN HEAVILY FINING SIG. L. H. SMITH ON CHARGES RELATING TO THE THEFT AND WRECKING OF A MOTOR CAR BELONGING TO MR. E. HIMSWORTH, FIRST MAGISTRATE, IN THE EARLY HOURS OF APRIL 10.

Traffic Sgt. Scrim, in the started. I did not notice any course of evidence concerning a jury other than a cut on my statement alleged to have been made by Smith, stated that the arm. I have a licence to drive, skid marks on the road, could not I did not get the owner's permission to drive.

"I now retract a portion of the foregoing part of this statement. The man who was with me was Sig. Guy.

"I have had a licence for 15 months. I applied the footbrake, the skid just happened. I do not know how it happened. We walked back to barracks after the accident."

WITNESS TO CRASH

Thomas Colman, called by the prosecution, said that at 1 a.m. on the date of the crash, he was in the vicinity of Hung Hom Bridge, walking in the direction of Hung Hom. Just before reaching the bridge, he heard a screeching of brakes and heard a crash. He hurried to the spot to see if he could be of any assistance. He found a car pointing away from Hung Hom which had crashed broadside on into a tree.

Two persons were about 40 yards distant hurrying away from the car in the direction of Nathan Road. He naturally assumed that they were involved in the smash.

He looked into the car and saw one or two splashes of blood on the front outside seat but so far as he could recollect, the windscreen was not broken but the headlights were 40 yards away and there was a considerable quantity of glass strewn around for a radius of about 50 yards.

His Worship then asked Smith if he had anything to say why he should not be convicted on all four charges and whether he would not like to call evidence.

SMITH'S STATEMENT

Smith, after hesitation, said that although he had admitted in the statement that he was under the influence of drink, in his opinion he was not incapable. "I had only had four or five lagers but not being used to drink this may have had an effect on me later when I got into open air."

Sig. Guy, who was then called, said that he was at Marcel's with defendant drinking, but he had no clear recollection of leaving this establishment, returning to barracks or what had happened in the meantime. He could not remember driving in a car with Smith.

$370 IN FINES

After an officer from the Royal Corps of Signals had spoken regarding defendant's character, His Worship passed sentence as follows:—

Charge (a) driving the car without the permission of its owner.—Fine $50.00

(b) driving a car while under the influence of drink.—Fine $150.00

(c) driving in a manner dangerous to the public.—Fine $150.00

(d) failing to report as soon as was reasonably possible, his collision with a tree.—Fine $20.00

The prosecuting officer was Traffic Acting Sub-Inspector A. R. Brittain.

AUSTRIA'S INDEPENDENCE

OTTO NO LONGER IMPORTANT

VIENNA, YESTERDAY.

"THE IMPORTANT PROBLEM TO-DAY IS NOT THE FORM OF GOVERNMENT IN AUSTRIA BUT THE MAINTENANCE OF AN INDEPENDENT AUSTRIA," DECLARED THE FEDERAL CHANCELLOR, DR. KURT SCHUSCHNIGG, IN THE COURSE OF A SPEECH YESTERDAY.

The speech had its repercussions in comment in the newspapers to-day, the semi-official press pointing out that the Chancellor's statement, which signified that the question of a Hapsburg restoration in Austria was not regarded by him as an acute problem, was a hint that Austria was planning negotiations with other Danubian countries.

The nationalist organ makes the speech a pretext for a violent attack on the Austrian monarchists.

RESTORATION PROPAGANDA

The journal says that the monarchists' frequent references to an impending Hapsburg restoration are threatening to disturb the political atmosphere.

"This is demagoguery of the most unfortunate kind," the paper asserts.

Austria, the article continues, should not be allowed to be made the object of experiments by irresponsible politicians.

"The chief problem to-day is rather to make Austria a peaceful German Commonwealth," concludes the paper.—Trans-Ocean.

Suffering from injuries to his head received when he was assaulted by another man, Kwong Yang, aged 22, was admitted to the G. C. H. on Friday.

Vitamins By Synthesis Now!

BERLIN, YESTERDAY.
THE SYNTHETIC PREPARATION OF THE FAMOUS "VITAMIN A," LONG THE AMBITION OF SCIENTISTS, HAS AT LAST BECOME A REALITY.

The man who has thus realised a long-cherished dream is Dr. Richard Kuhn, of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute at Heidelberg.

"Vitamin A" plays an important part in growth processes. If absent in the body, growing is liable to infection, while the conjunctiva and cornea of the eye grow cloudy.

Now, however, this important vitamin can be prepared artificially and may be administered clinically for the successful treatment of certain ailments that arise from lack of vitamins in the blood.

In one case, Dr. Kuhn has successfully used the artificial vitamin in correcting over-active functioning of the thyroid gland.—Trans-Ocean.

A DIAMOND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

NOTED LOCAL COUPLE CELEBRATE UNIQUE EVENT

One of the oldest of the "old-timers" on the China coast celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of his wedding yesterday.

He is Captain I. J. Lossius, who lives with his wife on Cheung Chau Island, not far from Hong Kong.

Captain Lossius's name is not only bound up with the Colony of Hong Kong but he has many intimate memories of the German Royal family.

Although a Norwegian by birth, he was partly educated in Germany, where the grandfather of the ex-Kaiser Wilhelm meeting him accidentally at the Hamburg Zoo, took an interest in the lad.

Captain Lossius started what was an adventurous life at sea when he joined a wind-jammer as cabin boy in 1870.

Promotion was rapid and he occupied in succession the posts of cook, able seaman, mate, skipper and finally superintendent of a shipping company.

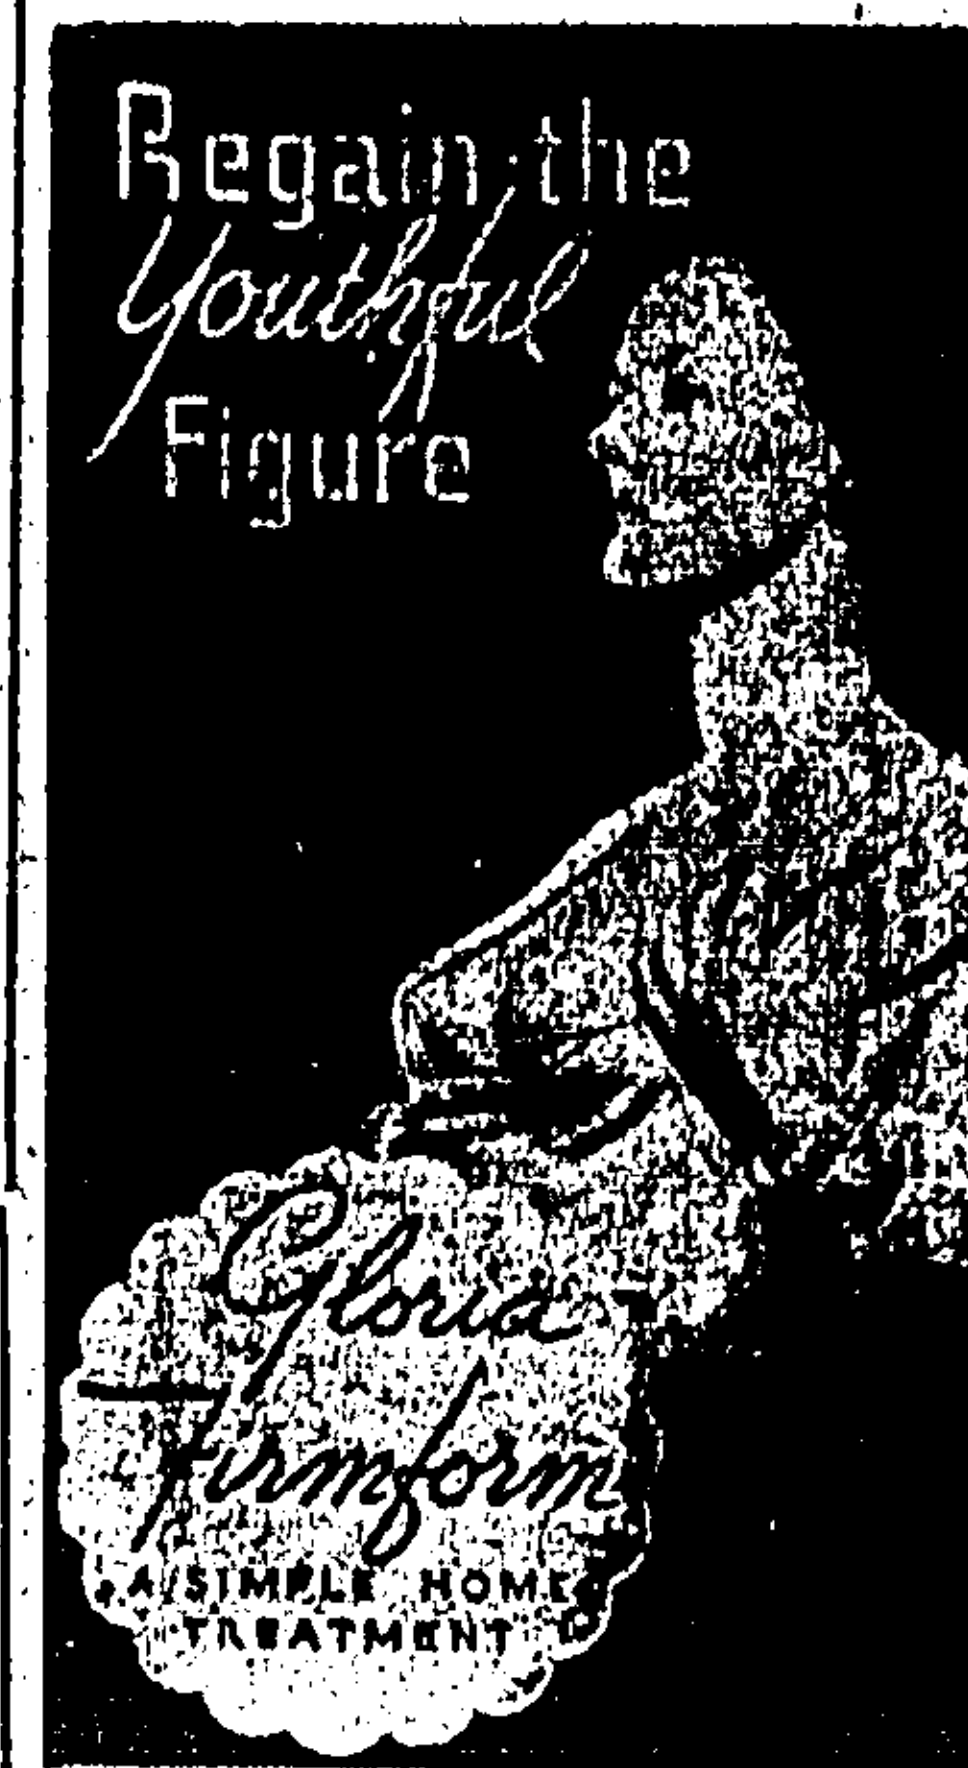

His meteorological records of the North Pacific have been extensively used in the compilation of weather reports for shipping in those waters.

"WORST WRECK AFOAT"

It was in the Winter of 1882 that Captain Lossius passed through one of the worst storms of the century.

He was fourth officer of the Bavarian at the time and the ship ran into a storm which lasted continuously for thirteen days. The engine-room was flooded by the gigantic seas and for 105 hours the crew baled out the water before steam could again be got up.

They eventually limped into Liverpool, where over £200 was collected from the hundreds who

The Senforth Highlanders held a most successful cocktail party on Tuesday evening, when there was such a crowd that it was quite impossible to get more than a fleeting glance of some of the pretty frocks. Like all these evening functions the dresses varied from elaborate evening toilette to afternoon frocks.

The Hon. Mrs. Clegg Hill continued to look cool in a linen evening dress of a flowered pattern in yellow and blue with a little white frill at the back. Another pretty summery frock that worn by Mrs. Akroyd-Hunt of an afternoon type, in pale blue on a white ground.

Mrs. Simmons was looking very smart in a particularly pretty flowered silk in brown and

PERSONALIA

Mr. & Mrs. H. W. Hewett and their daughter, Miss G. A. Hewett, are due to arrive in Hong Kong next Friday by the Blue Funnel liner, "Hector." Miss M. Jones will also arrive by the same ship.

Mr. Gibbon, who has been visiting his daughter and in-law, Mr. & Mrs. P. Peake, left last week to travel to England via Canada.

Mr. L. W. Amps left last week for England to join Mrs. Amps who, it will be remembered, left the Colony about a month ago by the "Gneissennau."

Mrs. Lewis, the mother of Mr. A. J. Lewis, of the Royal Welch Fusiliers, is at present staying in Hong Kong. At the end of her visit she will be returning to England via the Pacific.

The Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Bateman have gone away until the end of next month, on a visit to Japan and the North.

A popular couple who are very shortly leaving the Colony are Lieutenant and Mrs. Cavanagh-Mainwaring. They have been here about two years and will be much missed by their many friends.

The final day of the "Disley" Meeting at Kowloon might almost be said to have been the first public function this year on which summer dresses were worn without exception. Mrs. Walker was looking both cool and smart in a white frock trimmed with navy blue buttons and wearing a white hat with a navy ribbon round the crown.

Mrs. Dalzell wore in pretty short-sleeved frock of navy blue with a white flower pattern sparsely scattered over it, with which she wore a navy blue shallow-crowned straw hat.

A light green two-piece costume was being worn by Mrs. Seth-Smith. Mrs. Rodwell was in a flower patterned frock in which blue was the predominating colour. Mrs. Barchard's silk frock was unusual and pretty, being of a pale pink ground patterned with bouquets of blue flowers.

Mrs. Pattullo was in a duck-egg blue silk frock with which she wore a smart little white hat tilted over one eye, and a short white coat. A flowered frock in duck-egg and brown shades made Mrs. Rybot's dress, worn with a turn-up brown straw hat.

A patterned frock in which yellow was the foremost colour had been chosen by Mrs. Morrison, who wore with it a yellow felt hat.

Flowered frocks were certainly the most popular, and a linen one was worn by Mrs. Ashton with a big shady natural Leghorn hat, and Mrs. Reid's was also of a floral style, chiefly in blue.

authority on Oriental art objects.

Open sesame! Those were magic words to open the cave of treasures. But you don't need any magic words to enter Hong Kong's treasure shop—the JADE TREE! The magic is served to you in the shape of exquisite lacquer wares, jewellery embroidery, teakwood furniture, glassware all wrought by the hands of China's master craftsmen, and personally selected for you by Mrs. Wood, the well known authority on Oriental art objects.

Today here is a few words about COLONIAL DAMES powder. The best way to compare powders is not by saying one is heavier than the other. The so-called heavier powder, is of a more clinging and adherent quality. A good face powder involves the careful blending of quite a number of essential ingredients, in order to insure for specific functions: (1) coverage—the opacity necessary to cover up minor skin defects (2) slip—spread smoothly over the skin (3) adhesion—to cling to the skin (4) absorbency—ability to hold colour and perfume. COLONIAL DAMES has all these qualities—and more! Once you use it—it becomes a good friend to be relied on on every occasion.

Blossom out in the new, youthful spring styles Ladies of Hong Kong! You know you look devastating in clothes like those imported for you by MAIZEE'S—that's why you wear them! You know too, that MAIZEE'S caters to your every whim for saucy sophisticated clothes for every hour of the day! Take a look at the tremendous new shipment. There is everything a woman's heart desires and a discerning woman can appreciate. There are frocks for day, evening and afternoon wear—and how chic! Enchanting hats, the latest gloves. You will be fascinated.

Warm to-day, cold to-morrow; fog, rain, sunshine all mixed up—that is Spring in Hong Kong. The sudden changes of weather must not find you unprotected—take the best precaution—use NUVEX. It is sold at the GRAND DISPENSARY (corner, China Building, close to Queen's Theatre). NUVEX is an inhalant, a scientific antidote to colds, chills due to sudden changes in weather. Use NUVEX at first signs of cold; its vapours speedily destroy the germs and eliminate the infection. Don't forget the name is NUVEX and the place to get it is the GRAND DISPENSARY.

All those people who like to get something for nothing have the chance of a lifetime now! I don't want to be so rash as to say that you can actually get something for nothing at PAUL RENNET'S clearance sale, but here is the opportunity to buy two or three things for the price of one. Smart Bally shoes, gloves, frocks, hats, at half, or less than half price. And there's a big selection of corsets of the best-known makes at ridiculously low prices. Sunshades, belts and other accessories all for a song—and I bet you will like the tune! Hurry! These are the last days.

Don't let the children run risks! Perfect health—what happier thought? Protect them against the dangerous and all too common worms which afflict the human system, depriving the child of the full nourishment of his food, so that he becomes emaciated, pale, and yellow in complexion, with a very variable appetite. He may then suffer from indigestion, nausea, feverishness, grinding of the teeth, he will cry for no apparent reason, be constantly irritable, and far from happy. But WATSON'S WORM BONBONS will get all that right, and act as a preventive. And the BONBONS are only 6 cents each.

yellow tone, with which she wore a small brown straw hat. A turquoise blue suit was being worn by Mrs. Richards while her daughter, Miss June Richards, was in a pink frock with a blue flower pattern.

A brown net frock, with a three-quarter length coat edged with fur, was very becoming to Mrs. Bateman.

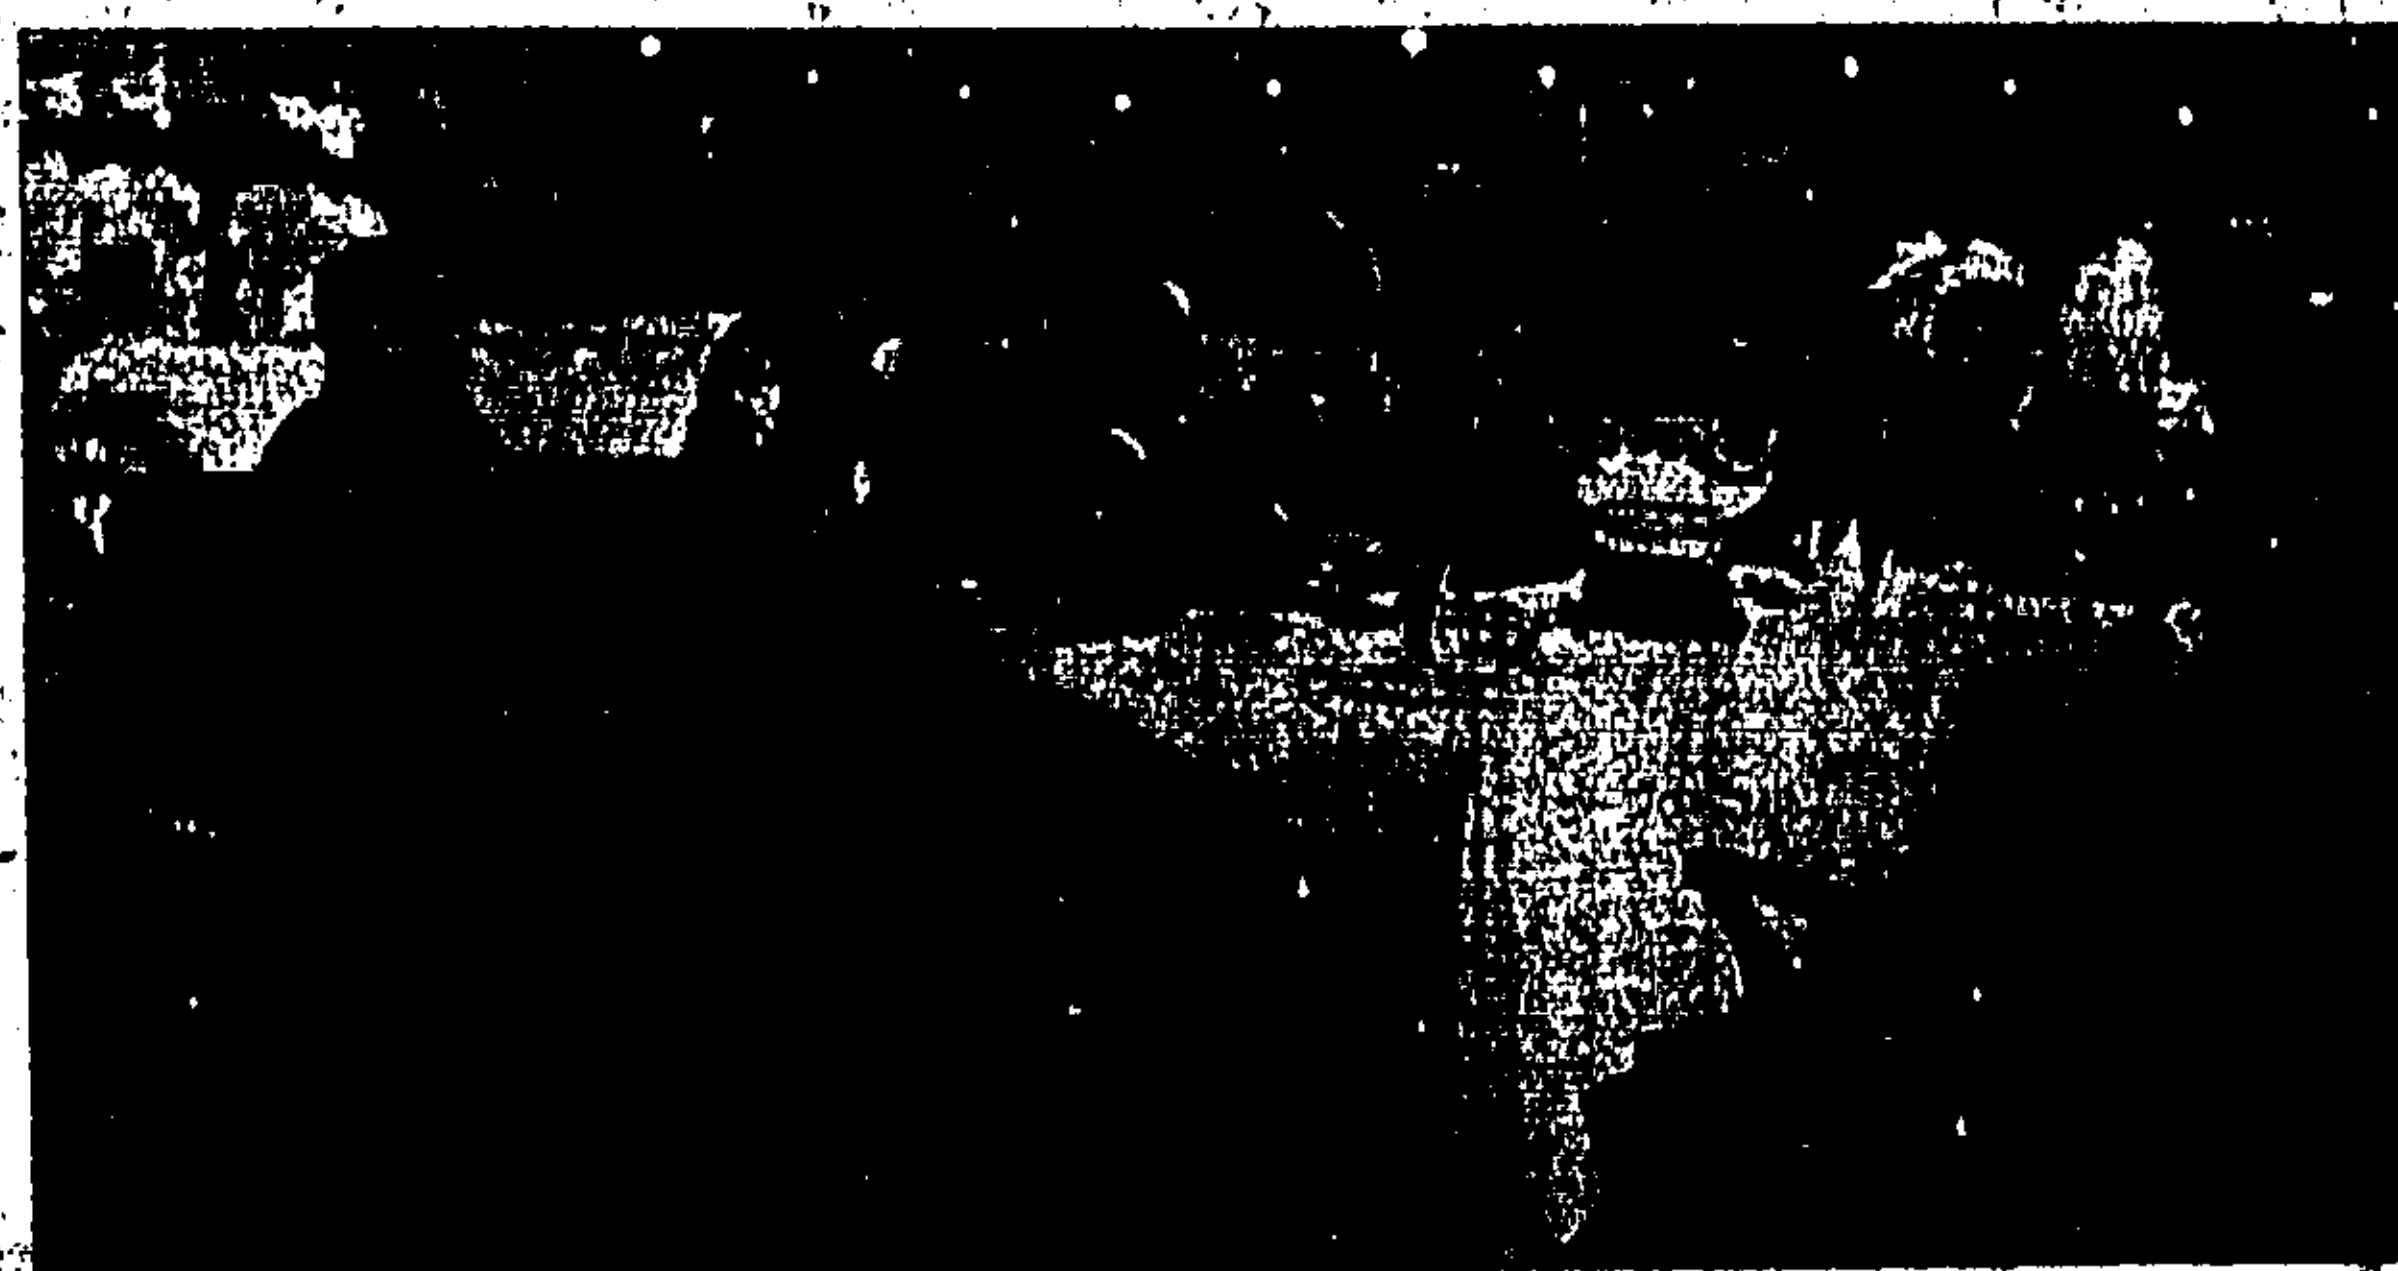

Mrs. Murray who is about again after her recent illness, was looking very well in a blue afternoon frock, touched at the neck and belt with gold. Mrs. Currie's bluey grey frock with a black pattern over it was very pretty.

Mrs. Sharp was in a blue satin frock. Blue had also been chosen by Mrs. MacCullum, though she relieved hers with bright red for shoes and handkerchief.

A smart black frock with a touch of silver in the belt was worn by Mrs. Clough-Taylor. Mrs. J. Lewis was in a cocktail frock of black and white, the upper part being white, with neckline bordered in a roll of black to match the skirt.

It is time you tried RIVELLE, and you and you... all of you indeed, the RIVELLE habit does good for all smart women. Heaps of new things there this week too... lovely evening frocks of the lightest georgettes, nets, organdies... and the grandest new net after-noon frocks, something that is very different! There are prints too, soft and gay, some cottons and many smart new hats. You will have to visit RIVELLE and find out for yourself what I mean by the RIVELLE habit. It is a charming habit too!

Already! A life of King Edward-VIII—BREWER'S BOOKSHOP have it, it is titled "Edward VIII, His Life and Reign," and is by the well-known biographer, Hector Bolitho. A number of other new books are also at BREWER'S, "The French Quarter," by Herbert Ashbury, an informal history of the New Orleans underworld; "Antony: A Record of Youth," by the Earl of Lytton—... here is the epitome of youth! say the critics. And Bok's "Corsairs of the China Seas,"—"Bok" of Hong Kong! You know, of course, that overseas papers and magazines are the lowest at BREWER'S.

A new hat, the crazier the better, does more for you than a proposal? Alright! Then MAYO'S is the shop for you! A shipment of new hats, plenty of crazy ones, little "muffin" hats—tiny hats with a roll all round and almost no crown, shiny straw pancake hats, sports hats, turned-up hats, broad hats and narrow. You'll get along all right this summer if you take your pick of MAYO'S new hats and then get them to make up a thing or two specially for you—they're good at that! And don't forget! They are marvellous at remodeling your old hats!

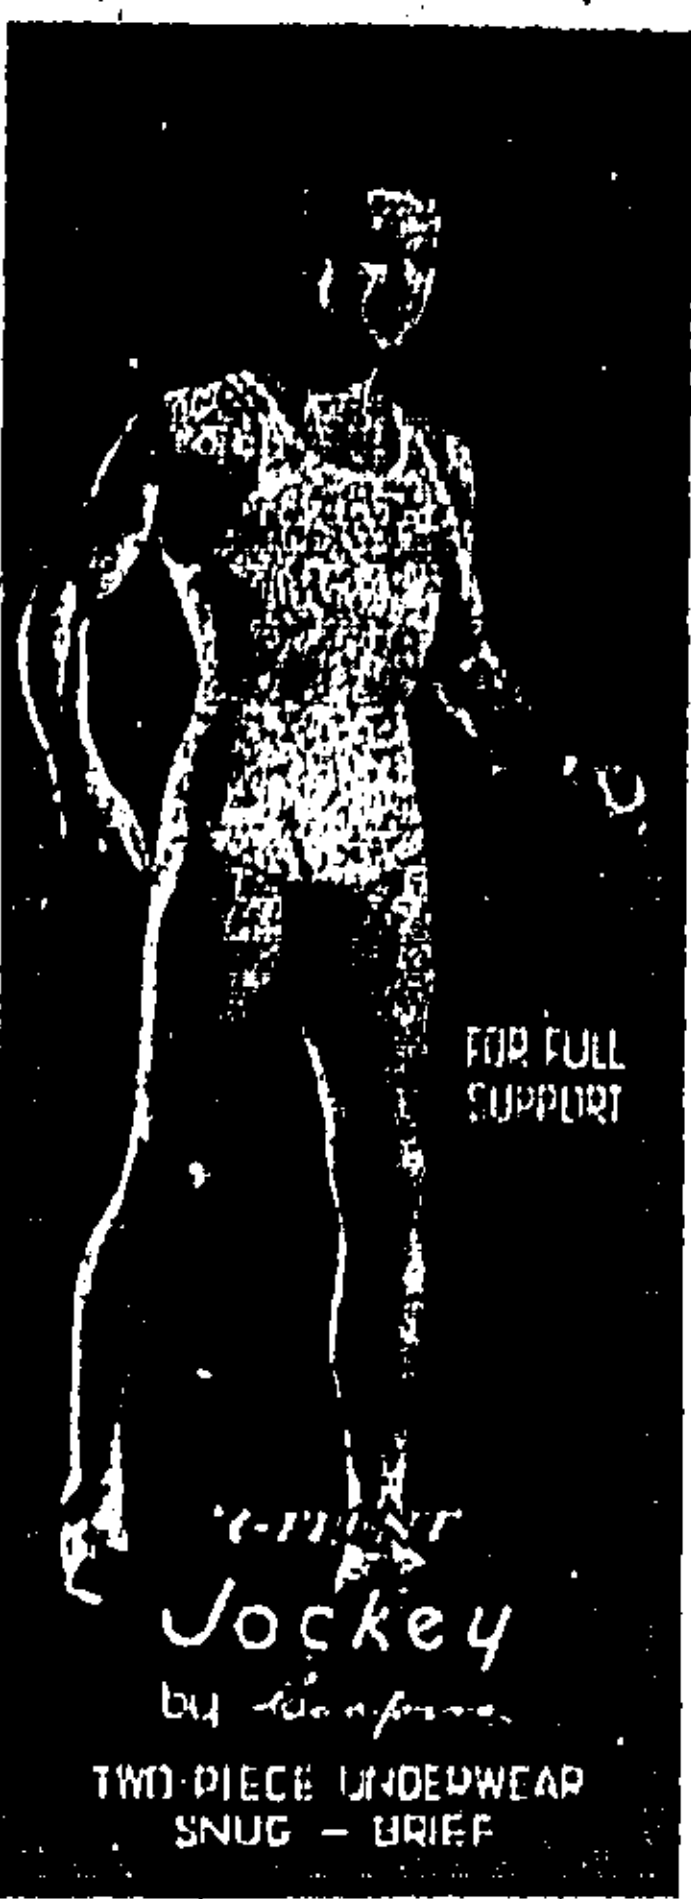

You all love clothes. You spend your days window shopping—and a new dress gives you confidence. Well one of those new ones at Lane, Crawford's will give you more than that! They will give you a real thrill! They're sports frocks—but they're crisp, tailor-made, they're of washable silk-Deval. They are plain, coloured, printed, striped, spotted. And you have no idea how gay you'll feel in one of them, a real up-with-the-dawn look! You can't miss those! But that is not all! LANE, CRAWFORD'S is ready in all respects to make your Spring wardrobe, and your accessories gay, and the last word in style.

The Zenith 1937 Radio is "the" one—no doubt about that. The newest in the world—but made by the radio's oldest manufacturer. It is almost impossible to find a finer radio than a Zenith... visit the INTERNATIONAL RADIO, SALES AND SERVICE, 27 Hankow Road, Kowloon, and find out about it. You may start with a small Zenith and pave the way for an All Wave World-wide Automatic Radio-Gram. But whatever it is, let your slogan be: "A Zenith in the home." There's no end to the pleasure you'll have, for its a radio famous for its selectivity, and tone quality. Cash, or terms arranged to suit.

VALE

FAREWELL functions at the Queen's pier seem to have been so frequent in recent years that the procedure has almost become a matter of routine, but there was nothing formal — one might almost say nothing official — about the ceremony on Friday when Sir Andrew Caldecott said goodbye to so many who had, in the short space of sixteen months, become his personal friends. When one recalls that at the date of his arrival he already had leave due to him, and that he has suffered from his several bouts of bad health, one cannot fail to admire the courage and devotion to duty which enabled him so rapidly to get a grip of our problems and to deal with them in a way which gave every section of the population the assurance that its interests were kept in remembrance. Perhaps the most striking feature of all Sir Andrew's public utterances was that they were entirely free from those optimistic truisms that mean so little, and were frankly concerned with the details of the next step that had to be taken.

What the "reasons of high state policy" may be that have necessitated the premature transfer we have not been told, and it would be useless to speculate. But political conditions in the Far and Middle East are subject to much the same influences, and there is no secret about the problems of Ceylon. All the Asiatic countries alike are involved by what is called "the Awakening of Asia." It has a thousand manifestations, which may be briefly summarised as the second stage of the contact of the East with European civilisation. For countless ages the East developed its own culture and art and manner of life on a basis of autocracy or theocracy which meant that the work of administration was either not at all or to a very slight degree the business of the ordinary citizen. In the first contact of the two civilisations under the Roman Empire it was the Eastern that triumphed, leading to the deification of the Emperor and a centralisation that was fatal to the old ideal of citizenship. In the second contact, of modern times, scientific inventions gave the advantage to the West, and there was a dual civilisation in which the Asiatic carried on his own life and contentedly left to the Westerner those tasks which he was conscious of not fully understanding himself. We have now reached the stage when the spread of education and greater familiarity with modern methods has created a demand for the inclusion of political life in the purview of the people themselves. There is naturally a widespread preference of general principles to practical work, and a search for the shadow rather than the bone. So far as the British Government is concerned there is no reluctance to share the task of government, but there is a keen desire to look after the bone that is occasionally unsympathetically expressed.

Ceylon, with its burgher oligarchy, who understood only too well how to work the forms of democracy, but lacked the feeling of responsibility for the uneducated mass of the proletariat, has presented a conundrum. A Commission recommended a wide extension of the vote to the illiterates, and this apparently illogical experiment was given a trial. It is too soon yet to say that the experiment has failed, but it is also too early to expect success in a change which must be gradual. Quite apart from effective use of method, it takes some years for a new electorate to understand where its interest lies. Of one thing we may be sure, that the Singapore could not have a better exemplar of shrewd political sense and perception of the public interest than their new Governor.

Events in India are sure to affect very considerably the evolution of Ceylon, and to a less degree Ceylon will affect India as providing an example near at hand of how elective institutions can be worked in Asia. In our regret for losing a Governor who knew our problems so well we may find some consolation in the reflection that so sound an administrator may find a very wide sphere when he takes up his new work.

The Governorship of Hong Kong came to have a more intimate meaning to all of the Colony's mixed communities in the paternal care of Sir Andrew Caldecott, and His Excellency's departure, which at length had to be faced, was widely felt as a great personal loss. Even to ceremonial, he brought the bloom of friendliness, while his public utterances were honest and direct, purged of platitudes, revealing a high seriousness in outlook, though frequently humorously expressed. At the Hong Kong Hotel on Thursday when Sir Andrew was presented with Valedictory Addresses, he urged that the true authors of success were his collaborators in the policies which he pursued. But that, of course, is the test of able administration. Leadership is not in individual energy, but in genius for inspiration, the ability to draw from associates the best that is in them.

His Excellency left behind him, in an outline of his personal views regarding the programme that should be pursued by Government, recommendations so sweeping as, perhaps, to startle even some people who hold advanced views on local administration. Importantly stressed was the final responsibility of Government for social welfare, and increased taxation to provide for adequate social services, replacing or subsidising voluntary efforts, was predicted. Drastic changes in salary scales of Government servants will come even sooner. Sir Andrew touched but lightly on the subject, but two things were made plain. The policy of recruiting civil servants locally is to be broadly extended. Present officials, in the salary mid-levels, as it were, may be faced with sharp cuts in the near future.

The release of the Woodward report on the Colony's water supply coincided with Sir Andrew's brief reference to this topic. The facts outlined made it startlingly clear that the completion of the Jubilee Reservoir has not solved the real problem, but has merely shelved it for a year or two. Immediate expenditure of over $3,000,000 is demanded. If the Colony is to get the full value of existing resources, but there are further heavier expenses to be met after that. Conservation measures distinct from storage seem to be inevitable. The Governor urged the creation of an anti-waste corps in the Waterworks Branch of the P.W.D. to systematise detection, and that seems to imply a universal meterage, extended even to the floors in tenement houses.

Decision to adopt Dr. Wellington's recommendation for the compulsory pasteurisation of all milk sold for human consumption in the Colony was one of the last legacies of His Excellency to Hong Kong. Few will doubt the wisdom of the decision. The decree will come into force on July 1, 1938. The small dairies, therefore, are given a year to make necessary arrangements. They will do themselves and the Colony a service by acting as speedily as possible upon the warning and not waiting until they are compelled to conform.

The University, confronted in its smaller sphere, with a problem similar to that which engaged the Colony on the announcement of Sir Andrew Caldecott's promotion, is relying on the subject, but two things were made plain. The policy of recruiting civil servants locally is to be broadly extended. Present officials, in the salary mid-levels, as it were, may be faced with sharp cuts in the near future.

THE PASSING HOUR

Sir Andrew's
Fourteen Points

SIMILAR occasions give rise to similar responses. I recall very clearly the farewell dinner given to Lord Milner when he was laying aside his work in South Africa. He said: "While I appreciate your good wishes and the address which has been presented to me, the greatest gift you can give to me is to bear in mind the causes that have especially engaged my attention, and which I must now confide to your fostering care." Sir Andrew Caldecott in like manner, in his last address to the Legislative Council and his speech on Thursday afternoon, gave us as his parting gift, like President Wilson, Fourteen Points to which he would have devoted his attention had not his term of office been so curtailed. For reference it may be well to record them, for they would certainly offer fruitful opportunity in the next few years. They were as follows: (1) Currency, (2) Retrenchment and Economy, (3) Taxation, (4) Public Salaries, (5) Friendly Relations, (6) Mui Tsai, (7) University, (8) Public Health, (9) Volunteers, (10) Air Force, (11) Waterworks, (12) Prisons, (13) Kindness to Animals, (14) Protection of Scenic Hong Kong and the Encouragement of Art.

The Political
China

THESE points at once fall into two classes. Some of them, like the poor, we shall always have with us. They will not allow themselves to be neglected, and the work of one man or one year is only a link in the continuous chain of administration. We have to remember the proverb about the strength of a chain and its weakest link for it is quite certain that any one of them if neglected will affect the weight-carrying capacity of our social chain. Particularly it is to be hoped that the new method of presenting the estimates may be fruitful. Nothing has weakened making its advocate a charac-

After the passage of several months, the Keelung Incident has been written off as closed. Japan for a long time refused to admit that there was any unnecessary ill-usage of British naval ratings of insulting behaviour to the British naval officer. The result was a seriously clouded atmosphere. Announcement of a reprimand to the police concerned in the affair may be interpreted as a complete withdrawal from that provocative attitude and honour is satisfied. Britain, on her part, apparently agrees to cooperate in seeing that it does not occur again, an undertaking which is strange-sounding having regard to the circumstances, and offers scope for quibble were quibbling in order. Mr. Eden, however, seemed only too pleased to get the matter off his mind, thereby reflecting general opinion.

It was probably pure coincidence that the settlement was followed by reports of preparations for Anglo-Japanese rapprochement discussions. Similar rumours have long been in the air. There have been many hints of Japan's desire for a clean slate and as Tokyo is well acquainted with Britain's ideas on China, economics and control of naval armaments, discussion might be entered upon with high prospects of success.

Mr. Wu To-chen assumed the Governorship of Kwangtung on Thursday and outlined a programme which must command instant respect. His Excellency has only to pursue his public policy with the same energy and initiative in the spheres of education, health and housing, to a meeting of the Union on Thursday, when a resolution was passed urging Sir William of Greater Shanghai to win a wider esteem that he already enjoys and the ready support of all with China's interests at heart.

the authority of governments in the postwar period so much as the oscillation between periods of expansion and penuriosities in the engagement and retrenchment of staff that has marked these years. There is no reason at all why an obligation to an employee of Government should constitute a less compulsive claim than an obligation to a holder of Government stock. The principle simply is that Governments should set a good example in strict observance of contracts. The necessity for calculating all that is involved in making a contract should come at the beginning and not at the end of the transaction. In England the salary cut of the Education Department has been found to produce a large amount of revolutionary teaching and disloyalty among the teachers simply because they felt they have a very definite grievance that would have been actionable against any other employer than the State.

The University
And Art

A recent writer whose books have achieved the palm of becoming best sellers, Mr. Bruce Lockhart, who was a friend of Sir Andrew's in Malaya, and speaks very highly in his praise as the most gifted man that England has sent out to the East in recent years, tells us that his rooms were well lined with a well-selected library, and with his own exquisite pictures of Malayan scenery. So perhaps the Dickens-Scott curriculum was not meant to be taken quite literally. We may suspect that all the more from the fact that His Excellency found so little leisure in Hong Kong for painting. He modestly referred to his Malayan sketches as "memoranda." Nobody, however, could note the soundness of his estimates of the artists who have exhibited in Hong Kong without being assured that the one thing lacking was leisure and not inclination. He has honoured the Working Artists' Guild by consenting to give it his name, and it is perhaps in the more personal tastes of a man that he can be best commemorated. Another activity which had to be sacrificed to the claims of work, His Excellency was unable to give to the University any of those lectures on cultural questions which would have been so welcome. It must have been against the grain to cut down the financial support given to the University, of which he fully appreciated the value in a commercial community. If we allow commerce to drive out every other interest we shall certainly fall to realise for Hong Kong its proper place in the world. We should be leaving another weak link in the chain.

Dickens And Scott

THE English Association His Excellency revealed that, he had no time—and apparently, no very keen desire—to keep himself abreast of the modern novel; and many of us will sympathise with his self-restriction in this respect. He holds what is perhaps now the rather old-fashioned view that the novel should be a revelation of human nature in action. He gets through his favourite parts of Dickens once a year, and of Scott once in two years, and is of opinion that in that way he gets more of a guidance towards understanding the men and women he meets in daily intercourse than he could otherwise. Our contemporaries think that the novel is a suitable medium for the discussion of all manner of scientific theories and political controversies that used to be reserved for books dealing specially with such subjects. This has undoubtedly the advantage that the writer can always handicap a theory or a cause he does not like by making its advocate a charac-

Health Through Physical Fitness

A Weekly Common-Sense Talk

BY L. KNIGE,

Director, Hydro-Therapeutic Institution, Hong Kong.

This Week I Discuss: Taking off Weight in Spots.

A word on waistlines.

LAST week I gave an exercise for reducing hips and thighs; before giving an equally good exercise for an equally conspicuous area; there are a few further points about physical activity which I should like to mention, as this information can help you to have more health and more energy. In exercise one thing is important, Regularity.

To exercise to-day, then forget it for a day or two and with a further start some four or five days later is worthless. The effect of exercise is accumulative. That is to say, its value increases day by day. If you only do two kinds of simple exercises every day, regularly, they will do more good than to do ten exercises, once or twice a week.

Remember to place a strain, or tension, on your muscles when exercising. Begin with several simple actions then increase the number in a few days and keep on increasing them. Don't tire yourself out. Do what you can comfortably and without strain.

Hong Kong is made for two sports which give wonderful health results and even the poorest or the laziest of us can indulge in them. Swimming — what could be finer in the Summer? with walking for the Winter—nowhere in the world have I found more beautiful walks than right here, both on the Island itself and around the Kowloon Hills. The multiplicity of the well made paths provide an almost endless variety of scenery, so there is not the slightest opportunity for stateness to take the edge off this form of exercise.

Swimming

Swimming is one of the finest of all exercises, but swimming, like walking, must be done regularly and persevered in. To jump into a pool or the sea and swim around, paddling and splashing is ineffective. Start swimming a distance and as you improve your wind and endurance, increase the distance every few days. Start swimming two hundred yards, then increase it to three hundred, four hundred, a quarter of a mile, then a little more, working up the distance until you are swimming a mile every day. Swim steadily, at an even pace, without sprinting or slowing down, or turning over on your back to paddle and rest. You will be surprised how it will cut down your weight and how it will improve your digestion and elimination.

Swimming is healthful because it brings into play practically all the muscles of the body. The swimming movement aids the peristaltic movement of the intestines and the action of the water massages the stomach gently with every stroke. Swimming is recommended for chronic stomach intestinal troubles. When swimming, the body perspires freely, throwing off the destroyed tissues and crushed fat cells through the sweat glands and pores.

Swimming is also very strongly recommended as a beautifier. Swimmers usually have beautiful, clear, healthy skins. It will also build up the thin and emaciated. Some of the greatest swimmers of the age were thin, scrawny and delicate before taking up swimming. Annette Kellerman, the most famous of all women swimmers, and a woman whose physical perfection is noted, was a delicate and crippled child. Swimming saved her life and gave her that marvellous figure which artists have pronounced the most perfect feminine body of the Age. So swimming is a beauty and health builder. If you can't swim, learn, you will always be grateful for this suggestion.

WALKING

Walking exercise should be done thoroughly. First, put on heavy woollen hose, and in this weather, woollen clothes. You must keep warm.

Good stout shoes and a pair of warm gloves can complete the costume. Then start walking. Walk briskly, swing your arms, holding the chin high, breathing deeply. Do not slouch along. Do not loiter. Walk steadily at a good brisk pace. Soon you will feel the perspiration starting. This is what will reduce your weight. Keep it up. To do you any good you should walk for at least an hour at a pace that will cover four miles an hour. Walking at that rate will reduce weight and be a great aid to health. The benefits of walking are double. The exercise which includes swinging of the arms and body in walking, crushes the fat cells between the layers of muscle. Secondly, the heat created by the action causes profuse perspiration carrying off bodily impurities and crushed fat cells.

The thing to remember is that the walking must be done regularly, briskly, swinging body and arms with the step, and wearing sufficient warm clothing to start the perspiration running. Many people who walk for exercise enjoy having a young dog along for company and as a stimulating influence. A lively dog, like a fox terrier, or an Alredale, is good company, affords a certain amount of entertainment and induces walking longer. Try it.

To Reduce Your Waist And Abdomen

Exercise No. 1

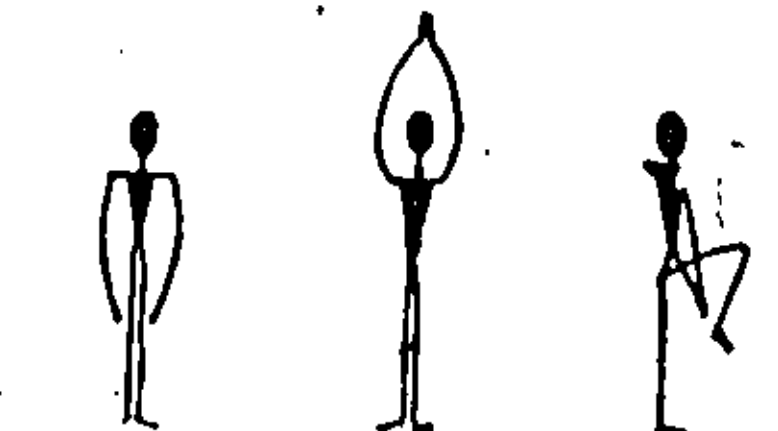

Sit on a chair, without arms, lift your left leg forward, keeping it stiff to the level of your hips, keeping your right arm perfectly straight, swing it backwards in a great circle until, by bending your body, you touch the toes of your outstretched leg. Repeat five times. Do the same exercise using your right arm and left leg.

Exercise No. 2

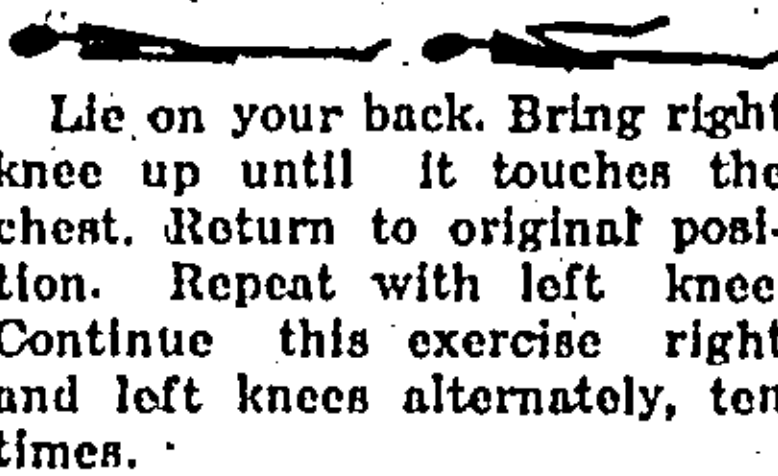

Stand with feet apart. Raise arm sideward until level with shoulder. Keeping the arm straight, bend trunk sideward to the right as far as possible. Repeat to the left. Perform this exercise ten times bending alternately to the right and to the left.

Exercise No. 3

Stand erect, arms at side. Raise arms sideward over the head, and clap together. Raise left knee and clap the hands underneath. Lower left knee and clap hands over head. Raise your right knee and clap hands beneath it. Repeat this exercise ten times.

Exercise No. 4

Lie on your back. Bring right knee up until it touches the chest. Return to original position. Repeat with left knee. Continue this exercise right and left knees alternately, ten times.

Exercise No. 5

Sit on floor with your legs straight in front of you. Separate them, scissor fashion as far as you can, and then bring them together. Ten times. Next week "Shapely Legs, Beautiful Ankles, and Slender Arms."

Mainly about WOMEN

Five Of Them

YES, everything has changed in Callander to-day — now it's the most famous little town on earth, except Bethlehem. The quintuplets have done it — like five little brownies working in the night. The wall of the hotel bears the poster: "Quintuplet visiting hours — Mornings, 9.30 to 10. Afternoons, 2.30 to 3."

Those five little Dionnes have developed into a super chamber of commerce. They have arched the highways with signs of welcome and completed great gaps in long-unfinished roads. They have built innumerable little cottages, sold thousands of dollars worth of goods in a region of inactive sawmills and stagnant trade. To Callander they brought more than 500,000 tourists last summer, and this summer there is every indication that they will attract double the number, and more.

But the greatest change of all wrought by the little Dionne girls has been in the life of their guardian and second father, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe. When the quintuplets were born his twenty-five years of obscure and sometimes unrewarded toil in the wilderness weighed heavily upon him. He had delivered more than 1,500 babies and sewed up countless wounds from axe and knife. He was very tired. Resigned to a world unchanging, to his books, a dog and a canary, a fairly comfortable solitude, broken only by an occasional summons to a patient.

A famous man now, a distinguished visitor on occasion to New York and Chicago, the familiar of all manner of notables. And his mail . . .

The little boy in Toronto wants to marry Yvonne and is putting in his request ahead of time, "If," he writes, "it's legal." . . . Palmists want to read the hands of the little girls . . . Florida and California winter resorts invite the quintos to stay for the season, free of charge . . . And the moralists who complain of having seen a shocking picture of the quintos in the nude. Those letters have been so frequent that the quintos may now appear before the camera only when clothed, lovely as they are!

The quintuplets, by the way, will be reared in the faith of their fathers, the Roman Catholic, and in a few years, perhaps, a private chapel will be built on their grounds.

Their establishment at present is a 50,000 dollar one — three small buildings against a background of dark pine forest, where wolves and black bears still lurk.

Their playground is a square plot of two acres, surrounded by a corridor, into one end of which visitors enter and from the other depart. The quintos can be observed, but they themselves cannot see the crowds. Aluminium screens block their view; they play on unconcernedly, unaware of the eyes of the world, lugging stony-faced dolls, dragging brooms, carrying blocks, sand buckets. All with the same red blob cheeks, strong black curling hair, sturdy legs, and large, dark, lustrous eyes. Even Dr. Dafoe doesn't know them apart — he knows them one day, tomorrow he doesn't. They change all the time, look like themselves one day, then like a sister the next.

The Kiddy Quip Curse

When people repeat their children's unfunny remarks

HOMEWARD bound on the Monday afternoon commuters' special, George Upshaw and two pinocchio companions, Watkins and Sibley, had settled down comfortably for their usual game when Horace Podley appeared.

Upshaw immediately experienced an acute sinking sensation. He nursed a growing repugnance for the smugly serene Podley, who was a pulpy, cow-hocked man with elk's teeth and a cackling laugh.

Worst of all, in Upshaw's opinion, Podley was the founder and treasurer of the Kiddy Quip Club, an organisation to perpetuate the cute sayings of children. By the club's rules, any father contributing his first acceptable kiddy quip automatically became duty-bound to donate five dollars to the club's treasury. The initiation fees thus acquired were ultimately to finance a volume in which the collective juvenile jests would be dedicated to posterity.

To Upshaw, whose prejudice was now definitely a neurosis, there was something positively repellent in this low-minded scheme to inflict upon humanity the bon mots of brats. Already, weeks before, he had exploded wrathfully against the whole diabolical idea.

"Kiddy quips are like burps," Upshaw had fumed. "If they cannot be sternly repressed, they should at least be decently smothered. The one thing worse than calling children 'tots,' 'kiddikins' or 'chickabid-which relentlessly impels fathers to inflict cute sayings upon helpless bystanders.

At this moment, in the club car, Upshaw was gritting his teeth, for he noted that Podley, in hanging up his hat, had been reminded of something. Upshaw's shuddery foreboding proved correct. It was a kiddy quip.

"I had Junior out to the zoo yesterday," tittered Podley, "and when he saw the bull moose, he exclaimed, 'Papa, what is that animal wearing a hat-rack on his head?'"

Watkins and Sibley, both kiddy-quip addicts, dutifully added their own laughter to Podley's high-pitched cackle, but Upshaw grimly maintained the unemotional expression of a surgeon sterilising a catgut.

"There's real humour in anything my kiddikin says," continued Podley mercilessly. "That last nifty was almost as cute as his description of his first ride in an elevator. 'We walked into a little house,' he said, 'and the upstairs came down.'"

Everyone laughed except Upshaw, who gazed at Podley as a microscopist might study a pill-bug. His worst fears were now realised. For Podley had started something. Sibley's face had suddenly assumed a look of lyric abandon, as of one who hearkens suddenly to the song dies' is a grown man repeating their alleged witticisms."

"But it's human nature," Podley had gushed toothily. "It comes under the head of normal parental pride."

To this Upshaw had paraphrased a famous axiom. "Kiddy-quip children," he had snorted, "should be seen and not had."

However, beneath his outer scorn, a secret fear had long haunted Upshaw. Fundamental human nature, he well knew, has never changed, and within him had grown a gnawing dread, a fearful fixation, that in time he, too, might involuntarily yield to the cosmic urge of the nightingale.

"It brings to mind my little Isabel's clever quip after her bath last night," he chortled. "She was drying a damp towel before the open fire . . . so close, in fact, that it scorched . . . when she turned impulsively to her mother and asked, 'Momsey, are towels done when they're brown?'"

Again the three men laughed uproariously, while Upshaw gazed stolidly into the interstellar vacancies, wearing the look of resigned suffering characteristic of Spinoza and other great martyrs.

The torture, he realised, was to continue. For Watkins had, with some difficulty, arranged his features to resemble those of a humorist about to deliver an epic.

"Speaking of real humour," he chuckled, "our little Angela was visiting my sister this week end, her first time away from home. Naturally lonely, the tot was crying, and when her aunt asked her if she was homesick, she replied mournfully, 'No, Aunt, I'm here-sick!'"

Once again Podley, Sibley and Watkins vocalised their parental merriment. Upshaw dug his fingernails into his palms and began to breathe as if he had been running, while his expression indicated that a large amount of hydrogen sulphide had been released in the room.

"That," he thought savagely, "must be a kiddy quip to end quips."

But more maudlinity suddenly cropped up from a new direction. The passing conductor, a charter member of the club, was to inflict his share of mayhem.

"You gents will appreciate this, for it's what I call real humour," he beamed, with the air of one about to scatter incalculable largess. "Last night I was hearing the bedtime prayers of my youngest lambkin, Ethelbert, and I had to warn him once more about saying his devotions too hurriedly. 'Daddy,' he replied, 'you wouldn't want me to keep the Lord up all night listening to me, would you?'"

Gustily appreciative guffaws greeted this contribution from all except Upshaw, whose throat made a queer strangling sound, as of a bagpipe being played under water.

"Wonderful thing, a kiddikin with real humour," observed Sibley with a significant side-glance toward Upshaw.

"Any normal tot has the gift," added Watkins pointedly.

"Exactly," agreed Podley, fixing Upshaw with an accusing eye. "And when a kiddie never makes a bright saying it's a logical inference that the father himself lacks wit. Such a child, unfortunately, is apt to grow up with the mind of a mummy. Eh, Upshaw?"

At the word "mummy" something startlingly psychic happened to Upshaw. With shocking swiftness he became a hapless victim of the cosmic force he had so long dreaded, and through its insidious alchemy he was transmuted into a composite of all the Proud-Parents-Through-The-Ages.

"I agree with you perfectly, Podley," he found himself saying, in a voice he hardly recognised as his own. "And that reminds me, tee-hee, of a honey my four-year-old Jackie pulled only yesterday afternoon. I was showing him through the Egyptian Room of the Metropolitan Museum, and after he'd inspected all the sarcophagi, do you know what this blessed chick-abdiddle of mine said?"

For a long suspenseful moment Upshaw paused dramatically, that his listeners might enjoy to the fullest their ecstasy of anticipation.

"He asked me," said Upshaw (and here his imitative treble became the half-tone of the tit-lark at twilight) . . . "Why is it there are so many Egyptian mummies and not any daddies?"

Delighted shouts greeted Upshaw's shocked realization that he had involuntarily succumbed to the Great Parental Urge.

"Well, well, old Uppy is human after all," roared Watkins. "So, kiddy-quip children should be seen and not had," taunted Sibley.

"Elected by acclamation to the Kiddy Quip Club," cackled Podley, extending a congratulatory hand. "Five dollars, please."

Upshaw paid and, still flushing a turkey red, slunk ignobly from the car, a beaten man.

He well knew that within twenty-four hours the news of his capitulation to Normal Parenthood would be triumphant neighbourhood gossip. Yet, strangely enough, by the time he had reached home, his choleric chagrin had gradually yielded to parental pride.

"At least," he comforted himself, "there's real humour in anything my kiddikin says."

About TOWN

CERTAINLY we Hong Kong people are hard to please. Thoroughly competent performers on the piano and violin have visited us and given us the chance of hearing delightful music. They have been welcomed by a thin sprinkling of people at the Helena May, and one has heard on every hand "what a shame he did not have a better reception." Then comes the criticism of the selection, which has almost always been made from a short list of compositions by the great masters that all concert-goers have heard over and over again, and are therefore qualified to discuss with the knowledge of an expert. "I think he took the second movement rather too fast. When I heard so-and-so at the Albert Hall . . ." And so on. The troubles of a performer are all the worse now-a-days because these masterpieces are just the things we used to put on our gramophones, and now listen to with even less effort because someone at the Radio Studio saves us even that amount of exertion. Not so long ago three visitors gave us programmes that were almost identical as to composers and only slightly varied in the titles. The Press comment was that it was a pity that some local musician did not submit for inspection a list of previous performances so that repetition could be avoided.

Encores

That is not to say that the pieces themselves are not good, and the rendering a pleasure to listen to. It is only that we go to a concert hoping to extend our acquaintance with good music, and particularly with new music. It commonly happens that towards the end of a programme the audience has warmed up sufficiently to give an encore or two. The encore is of course always short, being a matter of courtesy. Frequently the short piece is received even more enthusiastically, — on the principle of the learned judge who, on being asked what poetry he enjoyed most, said "lyrics, because they are soon over." But delightful as these lighter pieces are, one soon realises that encores are also chosen from a very short list, — and part of their popularity is that the semi-musical or non-musical people recognise with pleasure that they have heard them before. Another illustration that mankind has not changed very much since Aristotle laid stress on the artistic "pleasure of recognition."

Mr. G. G. N. Tinson leading in Whalsey (Mr. B. A. Proulx up) after its success in the Silver Mine Bay Handicap last Saturday at the Valley. ("Herald" photo).

Mr. Josef Lampkin

Our last visitor has been "strafed" for a choice of what has been severely characterised as "tripe." What he really did was to promote a list of the more popular encores to a place on the printed programme. He had a wonderfully good audience that thoroughly enjoyed itself, and what more have we a right to expect? No doubt he could have guaranteed us some Mozart or Beethoven, if we could have guaranteed him an equal audience. But could we have done so? Or an equal enthusiasm? During the series of Sunday evening concerts given in the entrance hall of the Peninsula Hotel some time ago, I took a friend who was passing through, and who asked me, "what sort of music do the people here like?" I said "something that reminds them of concerts they went to when they were younger and more receptive. Pass me your programme and I will tick off the numbers that will get an encore." And it befell according to the ticks. What is the unfortunate virtuoso to do?

Vieuxtemps

Especially was Mr. Lampkin blamed for choosing to perform Vieuxtemps' Concerto in D Minor, which was new at any rate to me, and welcome for that reason. I have watched him playing away in the middle of the big orchestra in which he used to lead the strings, with his grey moustache and beaming face, evidently enjoying every note of the music, and remembering wondering whether he and the other artists would not love for a change to be playing some musical thoughts of their own. It was an excellent custom of Sir Charles Halle, and later of Sir Henry Wood, — and possibly of other conductors, — to include in their programme towards the end of each season any composition by a member of their own orchestra. The public was interested and the player gratified. If not many outstanding things have been revealed in these performances, we are at least justified in asking, how can we tell whether hidden talent is not being suppressed if it never has a chance? And the same thing may be said of the performance by Mr. Lampkin. If the critics decided that the concerto was not one of the very short list of masterpieces, they have at least had the pleasure of forming a judgment of their own.

Everyday Music

After all, any one of the items on that programme was better than most of the music that we hear in the ordinary course, which consists of jazz, the Blue Danube, and the mechanical accompaniments of the cinema. Can we remember what was the air we heard at any particular show, or how it was worked out, or whether it was suitable to what was being shown on the screen? One of the points in which Charlie Chaplin showed his genius was his care about the incidental music for his films, and lots of people had their pleasure enhanced without quite knowing how it had been done. If Hollywood employed the skill of anyone approaching the rank of Vieuxtemps to do the music for a film we should notice the difference at once. The first function of a critic is to enjoy, and the second is to help others to enjoy by explaining how things are enjoyable.

A FEW weeks ago I mentioned in these columns the formation of a new swimming club, details of which were then not available. I have now some reliable information to the effect that an attempt is being made to revive the former Kowloon Swimming Club, who held their water-polo matches in the Kowloon Naval Dockyard anchorage. More news of this section will probably be available during the coming week.

THE Chinese swimming clubs at North Point are endeavouring to ensure a strong representation at the coming China National Games to be held in Nanking, and efforts will be made this season to prevent Hong Kong swimmers representing Canton instead of the Colony.

R. E. H. Nelson, who played for the H.K.C.C. in their replay against the Indian R.C. last week, learned his cricket at the same school as H. B. Neve.

THE Royal Engineers team which created a record by winning the Junior Shield soccer competition three times in succession, will be sadly depleted next week when the Transport Directorate carries away with it seven members of the team. Selleck, Ferris, Coleman, Boyling, who also performed creditably as an Army Rugby wing-threequarter, Callaghan, Darby and Hurst.

Loosing Swimmers Also THE Sappers will also be losing the majority of the swimmers, among whom are L/Cpl. Pearce, the Hong Kong Area individual champion, L/Cpl. L. Jordan, Cpl. Tonkin and others. The section has been reinforced, however, by several newcomers who are expected to do well.

E. Kern, the K.C.C. lawn bowler has just returned to the Colony.

THE Army have lost their centre-forward, Knight, of Lyemun, who left by the troopship on Friday. Besides being a footballer, Knight was a good sprinter and swimmer, representing his unit in the Area Sports.

Sergeant F. V. V. Riberio, of the Hong Kong Volunteers and the Recreio lawn bowler, has not missed a parade for the past eight years—a record anyone can be proud of.

I. H. Bradford, a prominent member of the Interport Rugby team to visit Shanghai recently, has left the Colony.

Gerrard Plays For Somerset R. A. GERRARD, formerly of the Diocesan Boys' School and who since leaving Hong Kong has played Rugby for England, has also achieved some success at cricket. He played five innings for Somerset last season.

During the off-season Kowloon Tong intend to maintain their badminton activities and will hold various tournaments.

Hockey Association Loss M. R. F. A. Kemp, who has performed yeoman service as Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Hockey Association, will be leaving for England within the next fortnight on furlough. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Kemp, who is a prominent member of the "Y" Ladies' junior hockey team.

MRS. Wilson, the Colony ladies' singles and double lawn tennis champion, left Hong Kong yesterday for Scotland by the Ranpura, and will not be returning here. She hopes to take part in some of the North of Scotland tournaments, including the Championship. Mr. Wilson will leave here in six weeks' time.

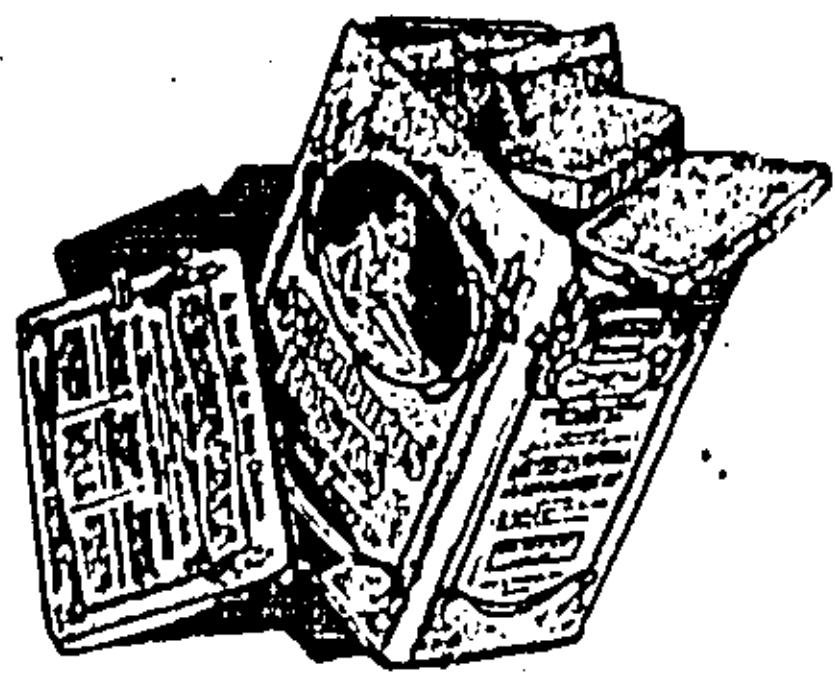

Played At Lord's AMONG those who took part in the Army-Navy cricket fixture at Lord's last season, the following, all of whom have played in Hong Kong:—Lt. R. W. Melsome, Comdr. R. Shaw, Lt. R. H. Stephenson and Comdr. Boucher.

Chinese "Y" Bathing Pavilion THE Chinese Y.M.C.A. Bathing Pavilion at Laiching beach is being rapidly rebuilt and will be ready for use within a month.

Mr. A. A. Dand's eleven, above, beat a Portuguese hockey eleven captained by Lieut. F. da Costa, of Macau, a week ago last Thursday on the Y.M.C.A. ground. From left to right are: Kishen Singh, Spr. MORTON, Durham and Fisher, former Lyemun soccer players, were selected to represent the Army at soccer in Colombo.

IT was with regret that I learned that H. B. Neve, who tops the H.K.C.C. batting averages this season and who stood an excellent chance of securing a place in the Colony Interport team against Shanghai next November, will be leaving the Colony on transfer to Canton next month. It is considered unlikely that he will be back in the Colony in time to play against the Northerners.

Yacht Club's New Green

THE Yacht Club are laying out an additional bowling green in front of the Clubhouse, facing the waterfront. It is expected to be ready in two months' time.

One of the novelty races at the forthcoming annual sports of the Indian Recreation Club will be a tricycle race, which should provide good entertainment for the visitors.

Griggs No New Hand

CHIEF Writer Griggs of H.M.S. Tamar, who was recently appointed assistant Honorary Secretary of the Football Association, was for many years a first class Navy referee and was on the Council of the Devon Football Association.

Eastern Seek Support

FEARING that their regular team would not do sufficiently well in Manila, the Eastern Athletic Association have invited D. Leonard, A. Hussain and V. Costa to accompany them when they leave on Friday.

Dorrance Visits Colony

R. DORRANCE, the Shanghai Interport lawn bowler, is at present in the Colony on holiday. Last week he had a roll up at the Police Recreation Club.

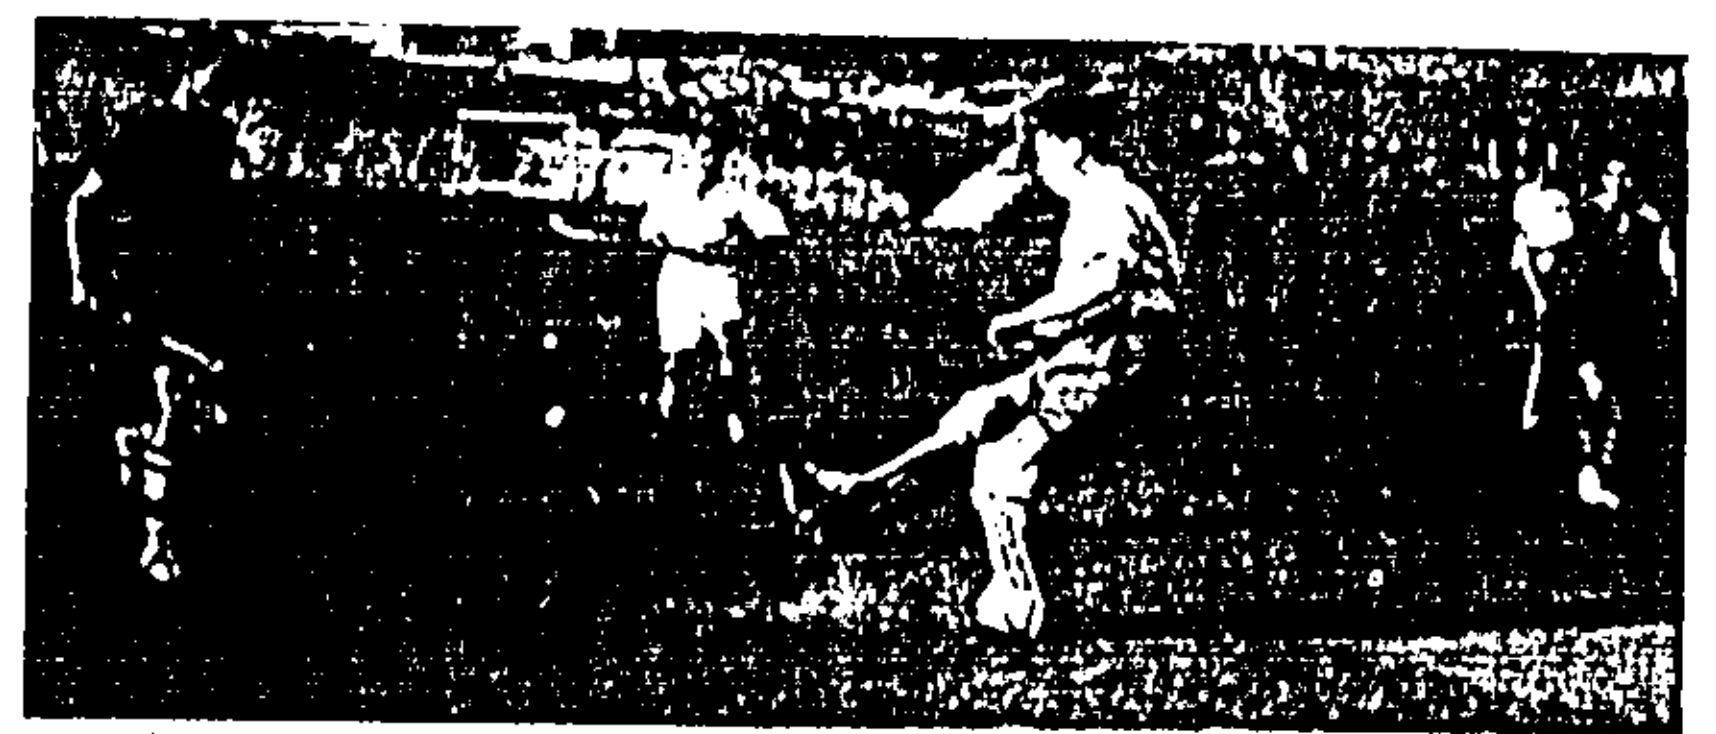

Promotion For Tavares?

J. TAVARES, St. Joseph's junior centre-forward, is another youngster who should do well in the First Division. He has been playing good football this season, and it will not be surprising to find him a regular member of the senior team next season.

A tug-of-war event between married and bachelor members of the Indian Recreation Club will conclude their annual sports meeting to be held next Sunday.

BODY RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Most Hated Man In Palestine Falls To Assassin

London, Yesterday.
The "most hated man" in Palestine, on whose life several attempts have been made, has finally fallen to the assassin's bullet.

HE IS HALIM BASTA, EITHER AN ARAB OR EGYPTIAN, WHO WAS SHOT DEAD IN THE STREET YESTERDAY AS HE WAS ON HIS WAY FROM HIS HOME TO THE CENTRAL POLICE STATION IN HAIFA.

De Valera In Car Smash

Dublin, Yesterday.
Mr. Eamonn de Valera, President of the Irish Free State, had a narrow escape to-day when his car collided at high speed with a motor-van.

Although no one was injured, Mr. de Valera had to proceed in another car as his own was badly damaged.—Trans-Ocean.

Berlin And Sir Eric Phipps

Berlin, Yesterday.
The transfer of the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, to Paris, has prompted a general review of his tenure of office in Berlin by the German newspapers. The "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung," in a leader surveying his record, says that Sir Eric took over the Berlin Embassy in 1933 in a particularly critical period.

The extensive knowledge of Continental affairs which Sir Eric had acquired during his diplomatic career, stood him in good stead during his period in Berlin. After enumerating the important events which occurred during his period of office in the German capital, the paper expresses the hope that Sir Eric's understanding of Germany's desire that her relations with other Powers be based on the principle of full equality of rights, may help him to contribute to the cause of European peace.—Trans-Ocean.

Halim Basta was deputy police chief of Haifa and was considered by the Arab section of the population as a ruthless opponent of Arab demands and aspirations.

According to a report from Jerusalem, he was shot by three members of the secret Arab militant organisation, all of whom made their escape.

The body was riddled with nine bullets, and the British authorities have offered a large reward for the killers.

A child who was standing beside the dead policeman was seriously wounded.—Trans-Ocean.

LEAGUE STUDY OF NUTRITION

Astor Committee In Session

Geneva, Yesterday.
The Mixed Committee on Nutrition met for its third session, with Lord Astor (Britain) in the chair. In conformity with the 1936 assembly resolution, it is examining the agricultural and economic aspects of the nutrition problem. Documents prepared by the League Secretariat will serve as the basis of discussion for the drafting of the report.—British Wire-less.

FRAU GOERING INDISPOSED

Berlin, Yesterday.
Frau Emmy Goering, the wife of the Reich Air Minister, General Hermann Goering, is going to Italy for a rest cure this month. It is expected that General Goering will follow her to Italy before the end of the month.—Trans-Ocean.

A story-telling picture, believed to be the only one taken before the Star ferry, Night Star, sank after her collision during the week. Passengers are seen scrambling ashore with difficulty, while other craft are hovering round, taking passengers off. The vessel was still below water yesterday.

GRAVE SITUATION ON NORTH-WEST FRONTIER

ANOTHER CONVOY AMBUSHED

London, Yesterday.

Unruly tribesmen on the North-West Frontier of India yesterday ambushed another British convoy. Two of the attackers were killed.

MILITARY TELEPHONE WIRES ARE ALSO REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN CUT BY THE TRIBESMEN.

THE "DAILY TELEGRAPH" SAYS THAT THE BRITISH AUTHORITIES CONSIDER THE SITUATION IN WAZIRISTAN TO BE "VERY GRAVE".

"These Indian tribes, who are probably the toughest warriors in the whole world, are able to call on 500,000 fighting men," the paper says.

"The present outbreak may require a generation of political endeavour to achieve the task of conciliating the tribes."

The paper also publishes an Exchange Telegraph message from Calcutta, quoting the Attorney-General who is conducting the prosecution of twelve Indian Communists charged with High Treason.

The Attorney-General said that the men had been in regular receipt of funds from the Comintern in Moscow, who had primed the men with revolutionary propaganda.—Trans-Ocean.

ITALY TURNS TO RUMANIA

Another Pact Mooted

Rome, To-day.
Following signing of the pact with Yugo-Slavia, Italy is now anxious to conclude a similar treaty of amity with Rumania.

So states a semi-official announcement, which adds that such an agreement would mean that the ultimate aim of Italian foreign policy, namely full appeasement in the Mediterranean and Danube basin, would be reached.

An understanding between Italy and Rumania, however, would have to be preceded by relaxation of the tension between Rumania and Hungary, owing to the alleged ill-treatment accorded by the Rumanian Government to the Hungarian minority.—Trans-Ocean.

Reich Winter Relief Collections

Berlin, Yesterday.
The huge sum of 398,500,000 marks in cash and in kind was collected in the winter relief campaign for 1936/1937, declared the Minister of Propaganda, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, to-day.—Trans-Ocean.

Ngau Chik-po, aged 25, collapsed after a meal, apparently owing to the effects of heroin poisoning. He was admitted to the G. C. H.

Mystery Trip Of Lord Londonderry

London, To-day.

Lord Londonderry, former Secretary for Air, took off yesterday in a plane which he himself is piloting for a holiday on the Continent.

Asked by newspapermen where he was going, Lord Londonderry said he was not sure. He had not fixed any plan but would be back in ten days.

His first stopping place, however, will be Paris.

In view of Lord Londonderry's well-known pro-German views, he is likely to pay a visit to Germany.—Trans-Ocean.

MARSEILLES MYSTERY

Disappearance Of Catalan Leader

Paris, Yesterday.

The mysterious disappearance of Senor Casas, the delegate in France of the Catalan Generalidad, is causing a widespread police search, says the "Temps."

Senor Casas left his hotel in Marseilles a few days ago with an attaché case containing important documents and the sum of 150,000 francs.

He told the reception desk he was going out to "buy food," since when nothing has been heard of him.—Trans-Ocean.

Turkish Warships To Visit Cattaro

Belgrade, Yesterday.

For the first time in history Turkish warships will call at a Yugo-Slav port when on Sunday several units of the Turkish fleet arrive at Cattaro, on the Yugo-Slav Adriatic coast.

At the same time, the Turkish Premier and Foreign Minister will visit the port.—Trans-Ocean.

THE REAL RISK IS TIME!

A MAN with family responsibilities who puts his money into any other investment, no matter how attractive, before he has first secured adequate life insurance is gambling with the future of those he loves.

NOT because other investments may be risky in themselves, but because accumulating an estate through savings and investments requires many years. No man can count on continued life over any period.

Life insurance is the only financial plan which guarantees your family a certain sum at an uncertain future time — to-morrow or many years hence.

DANGERS OF INFLATION AN ARTIFICIAL BOOM

Following an extensive analysis of the present industrial position, the Half-Yearly Banking and Commercial Review issued by "The Statist" concludes that the domestic boom is still well established, and with the incidence of rearmament demand spread over the next few years a continuation of active and profitable conditions in industry should be ensured.

Our main concern, in fact, should not be connected with the question of upholding the activity and profitability of economic enterprise, but with the prevention of excessive activity and profit inflation.

Artificial Boom

With a defence programme of £1,500 million to be spread over the next five years and to be covered as to about £400 million by borrowing, it is evident that serious dangers of over-expansion will be met. The next five years will in fact provide a first-class test for our authorities and indeed for the capitalist system of industrial organisation as it is known in this country.

The wholly abnormal and artificial stimulation of industrial activity that will be compressed into this period must carry with it the risk of a subsequent reaction.

The plans and policy that should be devised to avoid or at least mitigate that reaction should aim in the first place of preventing any undue inflationary developments following the imposition of the defence programme over and above the boom conditions that are already apparent in the economic situation.

Control Of Credit

That probably will not be done by a real-tightening of credit conditions because this instrument is too unselective in its operation. Qualitative control of credit is required, and the machinery for it which is now virtually non-existent should immediately be established.

Sun Life Co. Report

Dividends On Capital Stock Resumed

The report of Directors of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, states:

The surplus over all liabilities, capital stock account, and contingency reserves, has been increased to $18,118,207.61.

The satisfactory financial condition of the Company, and the successful character of the year's operations, combined with the improvement in the general business outlook, enable your Directors to announce an increase in dividends on participating policies, and the resumption of dividends on the capital stock. The new dividend scale on policies will become effective on April 1, 1937. A dividend of $3.75 per share, payable on April 1, 1937, has been declared on the capital stock for the quarter ending March 31, 1937.

The proportions in which the surplus derived from the participating branch is distributed as between policyholders and shareholders, have from time to time been adjusted as the growth of the Company has warranted. The position the Company has now attained has made a further adjustment desirable. The by-law governing the distribution of surplus has consequently been revised to provide for the allocation of distributable surplus derived from the participating branch in the proportions of 97½ per cent to policyholders and 2½ per cent to the surplus set aside for distribution from the non-participating branch.

The banks should devise means for the better collection and diffusion of information on the volume and distribution of their advances, and should evolve the machinery and the willingness for co-operative action in restricting accommodation for speculative or undesirable objectives.

The Government, too, should

JAPAN'S TIENTSIN MONOPOLY

Spinning Industry To Be Consolidated

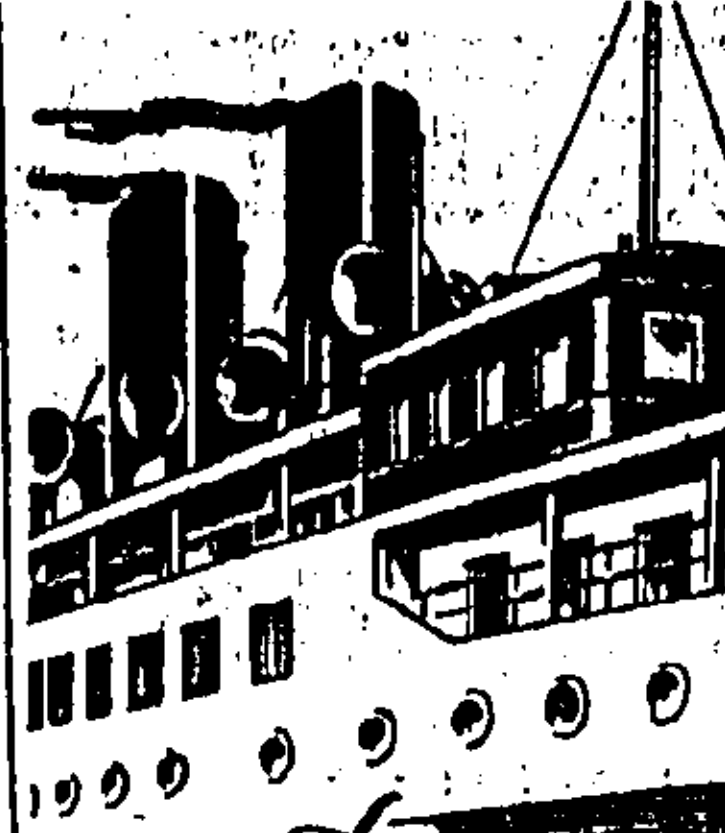

Japan's economic expansion in north China is witnessed by its new projects for promoting the cotton, paper, gas, motor and various other industries. Strengthening Japan's monopoly of the cotton spinning industry in Tientsin, a new Japanese cotton mill, the Yu Fong Cotton Mill, will be established shortly with a capitalisation of about Y.5,500,000. After the inauguration of its No. 1 mill, Nos. 2 and 3 will be constructed.

The number of spindles installed in Japanese spinning mills in Tientsin on March 1 was 241,348, which will be increased to 287,000 spindles before the end of this year, according to the "Yomiuri." The number at the year-end will be nearly the same as that of spindles installed in the Japanese mills in Tientsin. The Japan Cotton Spinners' Association in China recently asked the Japanese spinning mills in Tientsin to join it. These mills have decided to join the association. In consequence, a branch association will be established in Tientsin shortly. There are about 2,500,000 Japanese spindles in China, at Shanghai, Tientsin and Tientsin.

A large paper mill also is being planned by Japanese interests. It will be established in Tientsin with a capitalisation of Y.5,000,000. Construction work is to be started in April. A gas plant will likewise be established there by Japanese interests. Its capitalisation will be fixed at Y.1,200,000. Japanese capital totalling Y.17,000,000 has been invested in enterprises in Tientsin since the fall of 1935, according to an investigation made by the "Shanghai, Mainichi."

immediately reconstruct its public-works policy in the light of the defence programme. This should be done with the objective of retaining an adequate margin of desirable capital works in hand to be launched when the activity under the defence programme shows signs of slackening.

Treasury Bills

London Yesterday.
The total amount applied for in tenders for £40,000,000 of Treasury Bills was £38,350,000. The average rate per cent. for bills at three months was 10/6.64d against 10/1027d a week ago.—British Wireless.

Messrs. G. A. Hartman and Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon yesterday states:

Markets the world over have been easy during the past week, and this easiness is attributed to fear of the American gold price being lowered, which fear does not appear to have been entirely allayed by President Roosevelt's statement that such a rumour is entirely in the imagination of the Foreign press. The Manila market has continued its downward slide and our own market has also been somewhat depressed by the prevailing weakness abroad; although on the whole it can be described as remarkably steady in view of the adverse factors elsewhere.

The Colony's trade continues to expand and business in Hong Kong is better to-day than for long past, so that discerning investors should take courage and pick up shares now, at what, at the year's end may look like bargain prices. At the annual meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels, held on Friday last, the chairman announced that the company is doing well, and this company's business is surely a barometer of local conditions.

Utility shares are a shade lower on the week; Hong Kong Electric having shaded off to 59½ and China Lights (old) to 14.80. Telephones (old) have eased to 29½ and the New are just 12½. Trams rose to 15.10 but are now 14.80. Star Ferries have sellers @ 86½, with no indicated buyers. There are still buying enquiries for Peak Trams (old) @ 4½ and for Sandakan Lights @ $12.

Cements keep very steady, and although slightly under last week's quotation, have good buyers @ $15.30. Ropes declined to sales @ $5.25. Dairy Farms are wanted @ $25.00 after sales under, this and Watsons offer @ $5½ cum. Sinceres are quiet, either side of $3.00.

Ewes are lower around $16.30. Hotels, the chairman's optimistic speech notwithstanding, have subsequently dropped to $7.20 ex dividend. Lands are down to $35½, but Realty are wanted @ $5½, and Humphreys @ $9.00. Wharfs were sold @ $116.00 and Providents (old) down to $2.00. Docks, also have eased off to $29½.

Bank of East Asia are in enquiry @ $91 and Hong Kong Banks exchanged @ $1855. Insurances are quieter, with Unions $630 cum middle. Hong Kong Fires sellers @ $285 and Underwriters @ $145. The Manila market has been downward all the week and quotations all round have been affected by the general decline.

Closing Comment — Hong Kong steady, Manila continues easy.

Mr. Choa Po-Sien Again Questioned THREE CARS USED BY FAMILY

THE AFFAIRS OF MR. CHOA PO-SIEN, FORMER COMPTROLLER OF THE FRENCH BANK, WERE FURTHER INVESTIGATED YESTERDAY WHEN HIS PUBLIC EXAMINATION WAS CONTINUED BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, SIR ATHOLL MACGREGOR.

Mr. F. H. Loseby, of Messrs. Russ and Company, on behalf of the petitioning creditor, Miss Ethel Morrison questioned the debtor.

Mr. Loseby: When the Court adjourned a fortnight ago you said you were going to look for papers. Will you tell the Court of your success?

Witness: I found the copy of the agreement with the bank and two books dealing with clients during the whole time of my proprietorship.

CARRIED ON

Mr. Loseby: When your son became comptroller, the books were carried on as if there had been no change?—Yes.

Mr. Loseby: You have occupied your house at a rental of $500 per month ever since it was bought from Mr. Brown?—I do not know what the rent is now; my son pays it.

Mr. Loseby: You were tenant until your bankruptcy?—Yes.

Mr. Loseby: What was the rent then?—$350 a month, exclusive of ground rent.

After further questions, witness said that four members of his family were working. Besides his son, his three daughters were also earning money.

He did not know how much they earned between them. Asked how many servants his family maintained, he said there were formerly five, but he did not know how many were employed at the present time.

Questioned concerning three cars used by the family, witness said they were not his. The family kept them.

Mr. Loseby: After your bankruptcy, your family went to Manila?—Yes.

At that time the Eucharistic Congress was being held and the fares were expensive?—I do not know. My son went with my three daughters.

AS BEFORE

Things were just the same at your bankruptcy as it was before, with the exception of one change, —all the papers had gone?—I did not find the papers you wanted. I never keep papers. I did not want.

Do you remember you were on oath when you promised to bring all your papers to the Official Receiver?—I misunderstood you.

Mr. Loseby: Then you have some more papers?—

"Yes," replied witness, and added that he would take them to the Receiver.

Mr. Loseby: There is another change. Some of your furniture has vanished?—None.

Are you quite sure? I am quite sure.

BANK'S PAPERS LOST
Witness explained that the inventory on the Bill of Sale was made up by W. K. Choy, who was attached to Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master.

Mr. Loseby (referring to the son): "He would not put in imaginary furniture, would he?—Not likely."

Asked why he gave the Official Receiver no other papers than his resignation as Comptroller of the bank, Choa replied that he gave the Receiver every document that he thought he should have, and added that the other papers relating to the bank had been lost at the closure of his business, and that he had no business dealing after 1936.

DIFFERENT OFFICE
Mr. Loseby: You went to a different office? The office was not my own.

You mean that you did not have an office or that you did have one?—

Witness explained that there were three rooms, one of which he occupied. He had a telephone. He denied that he had two telephones. He said that he had neither clerk nor secretary. In his office he had papers dealing with different things.

Mr. Loseby: The bank closes, books are destroyed, but Choa remains; everything has changed but everything is still the same, isn't that so, Mr. Choa?—

Witness made no reply.

After further questions, Choa agreed that there was a K. Y. Pun in the office, who was one of his partners. The Chung Wah Hong was Pun's private business. Witness took over the office after the Chinese Bank had closed. The Kwan Yuen Ying Kee, which was also known as Kwan Yuen was one of the firms in which he had an interest.

Mr. Loseby: You were all the time in the office?—Practically.

You saw all papers removed while you were there?—Yes.

You gave permission to have them removed?—Yes.

MISS MORRISON'S MONEY
Where to?—To Canton.

Why?—As most of the clients were there, they were taken there for the purpose of collecting money due.

Do you think you could get the books back?—I do not think we could. I have never heard from the man who took them up.

Mr. Loseby: Nothing has been mentioned of this in your Statement of Affairs. You invested a substantial part of Miss Morrison's money in that bank. Is that true?—It is true.

Was it a sound investment?—It was doing well.

Mr. Loseby: Do you remember

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS Bright Programme By St. Andrew's Club

On Wednesday and Thursday, the dramatic section of St. Andrew's Club is producing three one-act plays at St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon. As with most one-act plays, the humorous element predominates and audiences can look forward to some hilarious moments.

The pieces chosen are Sir Arthur Pinero's "The Playgoers," a domestic episode, "Lot 13," by Laurence Housman, and "Five Birds in a Cage" by Gertrude E. Jennings, comedy pure and simple. The casting has received careful attention, and the company has been assiduously trained by the honorary producer, Mr. L. E. Kirby, who was also jointly responsible for the very successful entertainment given by St. Andrew's Club a year ago.

Part of the proceeds are to be given to charity, and tickets cost $1.00. The time of commencement is 9 p.m. on each night.

ANHUI GOVERNOR RESIGNS

Shanghai, Yesterday.
General Liu Chen-hua, Governor of Anhui, who has been on sick leave, has been permitted to resign. —Reuter.

You said that you borrowed the shares from Miss Morrison in 1933, when you were $50,000 in default to the Gold Bar Exchange?—

I do not remember saying that.

Do you remember you said that in order to meet your liability you suggested to Miss Morrison to lend you her shares?—I do not remember.

Do you think you could have said it?—I don't.

Could it have been true?—"It could not, I did not owe $50,000 when I borrowed the shares."

Do you remember saying that you had $15,000 to meet the debt of $50,000?—I don't remember saying that. It would not have been true.

One of the petitioning creditors, Mr. Lal, is one of your intimate friends. Did you ask him to start the petition?—I have known him for a long time, but I did not ask him to start the petition.

At this stage the case was adjourned to the next Sessions.

MURDER OF LEPERS

POPULAR COUPLE WED

R.A.J. SIMPSON
AND
MISS ASLETT

The marriage between Miss Eileen Hilda Aslett, daughter of the late Mr. F. Aslett and Mrs. E. Aslett, and Mr. Robert Arthur James Simpson, second son of the late Mr. J. Simpson and Mrs. C. M. Simpson, of The Haven, Brentwood, Essex, was solemnised at St. Theresa's Church, Kowloon Tong yesterday afternoon, the Reverend Father D. Angeleus conducting the ceremony.

The bride was formerly attached to the teaching staff of St. Mary's School, while the bridegroom is attached to the local Civil Service.

In a gown of white satin, with veil and train and carrying a bouquet of white lilies, the bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. J. J. Osborne, who gave her away. She was attended by three bridesmaids, Misses D. Gan, Margaret Osborne and Betty Aslett, who each carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bride's mother, Mrs. E. Aslett, was also present at the ceremony. Her dress was of blue flowered silk.

Mr. Brian Clarke was the bridegroom's best man.

After the ceremony, the newly-married couple adjourned to No. 13, Stafford Road, Kowloon Tong, where a reception was given to their friends and relatives, numbering over 100.

The happy couple will shortly embark on a tour throughout South China for their honeymoon.

MR. J. M. NORONHA MARRIED

To Miss "Freda" Dixon
Yesterday.

Jose Maria Noronha, Secretary, of the Credit Foncier, was married to Miss Freda Eileen Dixon at the Rosary Church yesterday, following a nuptial mass celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Rignati, rector of St. Joseph's Church, assisted by Rev. Fr. C. M. Rossi.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Rignati in the presence of Mr. J. A. E. da Silva and Mr. T. Murphy, of the Police, who gave the bride away.

A full choir was in attendance, and after the wedding a reception was held at No. 27, Ashley Road.

FOOTBALL PLAYER WEDDED

Miss C. S. da Silva and Mr. S. E. Souza

A pretty wedding was solemnised at Rosary Church yesterday, when Carolina Silveira da Silva, of Manila, became the bride of Satyro Esteves Souza, a former captain of the St. Joseph's Football team. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father C. M. Rossi, while appropriate organ music was rendered by Miss Aurea Baptista.

The bride was given away by her father, who had come from Manila for the occasion, while the marriage was witnessed by Messrs. A. R. Tavares and G. T. Palmer.

The reception was held at the "Little Flower Club," where the happy pair were recipients of good wishes from many relatives and friends.

Chinese Couple Married

Miss Fong Shiu-jan, daughter of Mr. Fong Tai, merchant, was married to Mr. Ronald Thomas Ching, son of the late Mr. Ching Yick-choe, before the Deputy Registrar of Marriages, Mr. John Whyatt, at the Registry, Supreme Court, yesterday morning.

Mrs. Chan Chu-shi and Mrs. Lo Yuk-hau witnessed the ceremony.

FORTHCOMING WEDDING

The forthcoming marriage between Mrs. Jean Elsie Langley Levy, of No. 16, Hillcrest (No. 114 The Peak), to Mr. Ernest Charles Henry Featherston, naval officer of H. M. Decoy, has been announced to take place soon.

Vice-President of the Chinese Medical Association, while Dr. Arthur Woo was made a charter member and elected vice-president of the newly formed Chinese Society of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, a charter member of the Chinese Surgical Society, and a charter member of the Chinese College of Surgeons. The last named body, recently created, is China's "Royal College" and has now about twenty members.

The new President of the Chinese Medical Association is Dr. P. Z. King, of the National Health Administration of Nanking, and Vice-Presidents are, Dr. K. C. Wong, of Hangchow, co-author of the History of Chinese Medicine, and Professor Preston Maxwell, of the Peking Union Medical College.

The next conference is likely to be held in Peking or Changsha. During the discussions, State-controlled medical service was very much emphasised and recommended by many leaders of the profession.

LEPER MASSACRE

One interesting resolution adopted was as follows:—

"That the Chinese Medical Association in session at the medical centre, Shanghai, has heard with dismay of the premeditated murder of lepers in the Young-kong Hospital leper settlement and the subsequent looting of the lepers by soldiers. That, apart from the natural abhorrence of cruelty, this and similar acts, in direct contravention of the orders of the Canton authorities, as expressed in their published injunctions strictly forbidding the molestation of lepers, do more than anything else to spread the disease by driving every leper into hiding.

"And that immediate steps be taken by the officers of this conference to approach the proper authorities in Nanking and Canton, urging that suitable penalties be imposed on the murderers, that steps be taken to protect the lepers, and especially to prevent the molestation of those undergoing medical treatment."

Further action will probably be taken at the Third National Conference on leprosy.

WAH TAI COLLEGE SPORTS

Wah Tai College will hold its annual athletic meeting to-morrow at Caroline Hill, commencing at 11 a.m. Entries are invited for the following two events:—

RECREIO BEAT CRAIGENGOWER IN FRIENDLY BOWLS GAME

Cavanagh's Four In Fine Fettle

BASA WINS OVER LUZ AND BRADBURY TOO ACCURATE FOR SILVA

THE 1937 lawn bowls season opened yesterday with a friendly match between Craigen-gower and Recreio and the result, a decisive win for Recreio, will arouse considerable interest in the League, which commences on May 1 and which has been won very consistently by Craigen-gower.

In the game at the Valley between the champions, Craigen-gower, and Recreio, which the mainlanders rather surprisingly won by 29 shots, J. Cavanagh's four (J. W. Leonard, W. J. Bagley and W. Ward) took a seven off J. Basto's rink to win an exciting game by six shots. Down 17-11 at the sixteenth end, they scored 3, 2, 7 and 2 to win 25-19.

B. W. Bradbury, a former leading League skipper, secured a narrow win over C. G. Silva, also a skipper, while Dick Basa beat R. F. da Luz, who is back again with Recreio after several seasons with Craigen-gower. Though he started off with a five and at one time led 10-0, U. M. Owar lost to Alves by two shots. Led 23-15 at the 17th end he was only one behind at the last end. C. Remedios enjoyed the biggest win—35-14—over E. el Arculli, but F. X. Silva, with 35-10 over C. S. Rossetto, was not far behind.

Dockyard R. C. Lose

A very pleasant function took place at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club yesterday afternoon when four rinks from the Dockyard Recreation Club entertained a team from the K.B.G.C. and lost by 26 shots. Bob Duncan's four were given a fight by J. Hollidge's rink. Led 10-14 at the 17th end, they, however, scored 5, 3 and 2 to win 24-22. L. Guy's rink ran riot after the ninth end—the score then was 14-10 against them—and scored 3, 4, 2, 4, 2, 5, 2 to secure the biggest win of the match—30-16.

After the match, speeches were made in the clubhouse by Mr. C. B. Hosking, Hon. Secretary of the D.R.C., in which he thanked the Kowloon Bowling Green Club for the use of their green and for the very enjoyable encounter. Mr. J. L. Tetley, President of the K.B.G.C., suitably replied.

Police Practice

A successful lawn bowls practice was held at the Police Recreation Club yesterday afternoon, when a spoon competition was played, no less than 20 players taking part. As there were not sufficient for a complete rink to be formed, a pairs game was played and resulted in a win for A. Souter and S. Hodges, who scored a possible on the sixth end.

"Y" Share Six Goals With Kumaon Rifles

A thrilling hockey encounter was witnessed on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, when the Y.M.C.A. shared six goals with the Kumaon Rifles. S. A. Fowler crowned a fine display with a well-merited "hat-trick," while the Kumaons' goals came from Capt. Stapleton, and Telok Singh (2). Benwell gave an inspired performance in the "Y" goal, and brought off a magnificent save in the last minute of the game.

More, the "Y" right-back, and V. Bond, his colleague, played very well and had a big share in the result of the game, while G. H. Fowler rendered yeoman service in the pivotal position. Nolan, a newcomer to the "Y" team this season, although this was his third performance for them—proved an ideal leader. The Kumaons were very fast off the mark, their dribbling and passing providing the highlights of the encounter.

RIFLES' SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP

REORGANISED, SOUTH CHINA TEAM FAIL

Kowloon Cause
Big Upset
HONNIBALL EXCELS

South China "A"s stock suffered a sharp decline at Kowloon yesterday when they conceded both points to Kowloon by a single goal netted by Bowen midway through the second half.

Changes in the Chinese eleven were such as to leave it practically unrecognisable, Lee Wal-tong, Fung King-cheong, Lee Tin-sang and two others of the regular eleven being absent. The resulting disorganisation was all too obvious—the forwards crowded their work and over-elaborated their passes, while real good shooting was conspicuous only by its absence. Twice in the initial half Ho Ka-keung was presented with opportunities to shoot that Lee might have prayed for—but he fared poorly. Their defence, with the possible exception of Pau Ka-ping, was little better, their efforts to counter the work of a by no means brilliant Kowloon attack being only matched by the inability of Besta and his henchmen to convert opportunities that should have brought at least another two or three goals.

Credit for a Kowloon victory that was earned must go to the intermediate line and defence, as the forward line, with the exception of White, and possibly Knox G., presented a poor spectacle. Willis, who deputised for D. Knox on the left, was palpably weak and save for an occasional centre was little more than a passenger. Blake appeared in all sorts of odd places to perform the sorts of odd moves but only succeeded in putting three shots yards wide of the posts in quick succession. White sent several passes in the way of his leader, only to see him lose them unless they passed within a foot or two of him, while Knox did not receive the best of chances against Tso Kam-hang, who was one of the few members of his eleven to display anything like championship form.

Honniball, Bliss and O'Connor formed an intermediate line in which fault was difficult to find. Honniball in particular presenting a very solid front to the efforts of Lee Kwok-wai and Tay Qoo-ling. He was materially assisted by reason of the fact that Tay was by no means comfortable at inside-left. There was little to choose between Everett and Bowen the latter capping a fine performance when he netted from what was obviously a pre-arranged plan between he and Bliss.

SAINTS WIN OVER CLUB BY LONE GOAL

WHITE SCORES THE DECIDER

It was with a feeling of relief that the final whistle was heard at the Valley ground yesterday, because it brought to a timely end a game that had proved to be nothing more or less than a pathetic spectacle totally lacking in frills and thrills.

The Club had St. Joseph's as visitors in a senior League match and lost by the narrow margin of a goal scored by White, the Saints' centre-forward, after 15 minutes.

E. Strange was often in the line-light, spilling and tackling with a refreshing keenness, but marred an otherwise steady performance with rash passing to his forwards. Forrow tried hard to infuse some life into his colleagues and was the Club's chief markman, although Teang generally had the centre-half's shots well covered. Castillo and Fernandez were swift raiders and Hagen played clever football, the chief feature of which was his clever passes to his wing partner, but White was closely watched and Ward suffered from the common fault of poor passing.

TO-DAY'S LEAGUE SOCCER PROGRAMME

Provided there are no last-minute postponements, two First Division football games will be played this afternoon, but neither will have any bearing on the League championship race.

The following are to-day's fixtures:—

Athletic	v Police
Eastern	v South China "B"
Second Division	v Chinese Police
Athletic	v Chinese Police
Third Division	v Service Corps
Medicals	v Engineers
Chinese Police	v Engineers

A very interesting soccer match will be played to-morrow afternoon at Prince Edward Road, commencing at 4 p.m., when the Royal Ulster Rifles meet the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers in a friendly game.

Smashing Win Over Eastern

SOUTH CHINA BOW TO KOWLOON!

SOLDIERS CANNOT BE DISPLACED

THE Royal Ulster Rifles made almost sure of the First Division Football Championship at Causeway Bay yesterday when they defeated a strong Eastern team by 5 goals to 1.

AS SOUTH CHINA "A" MET WITH AN UNEXPECTED REVERSE AT THE HANDS OF KOWLOON YESTERDAY THE CHINESE WILL NOW HAVE TO WIN ALL THEIR REMAINING MATCHES AND THE RIFLES WILL HAVE TO LOSE ALL THEIRS BEFORE THE CHINESE CAN COME ON LEVEL TERMS.

The Rifles, needing only one point to win the championship, have yet to play South China "B" and Chinese Athletic, while the champions meet the Seafarths next Saturday and then St. Joseph's.

Although Eastern put up a gallant show in the first half they tired quickly after the change of ends and before a further 20 minutes had elapsed they had completely lost their morale. Three goals in as many minutes during the first half and a similar number in 10 minutes after the resumption supplied some really hectic struggles, but there were also periods, especially during the second half, when the football was anything but interesting.

The Chinese attack had no sting in the centre, where the inside men were slow in seizing a chance, but the wing men were a thorn in the Rifles' defence on account of their terrific shooting power. Ho Ching-to got in some drives during the first half which reminded one of Lee Wal-tong's best efforts, and Connor in the Rifles' goal did remarkably well to stop two such pile-drivers before the game had progressed many minutes.

Weak Half-Backs
Eastern's chief trouble lay at half-back, where Cheung Kwok-choi failed to hold the line together with any degree of success.

Moore played one of his best games to score three goals. He was much faster on the ball than the opposing centre-half and he displayed a thorough understanding of Erwin's particular style of putting the ball high into the centre.

With the exception of Docherty, who was unusually lothargic at inside-left, the Rifles' attack were on their toes, and although Forgunson produced some clever work he was eclipsed by the brilliant performance of Erwin on the right wing. The outside-right was indirectly responsible for four of the five goals, and whilst he did nothing in the way of dribbling which might be called exceptional, his perfect dropping centres made goal-scoring a comparatively simple matter for his inside men.

Interest also centred on the appearance of Galbraith, at centre-half, who was filling the place vacated by Campbell when he left the Colony last Friday—no enviable task when it is known that Campbell was considered by many to be the best centre-half in the Colony.

However, although Galbraith had not the finesse and constructive ability of his predecessor, his defensive tactics were commendable and he should do better when he has settled down.

The Rifles' first goal came as a result of a blunder by Lal Ting-choi, who, in a desperate attempt to dispossess Moore of a pass from Erwin, kicked past his own custodian into an open goal. This goal, however, was nullified only two minutes later when Connor failed to hold a terrific drive from Ho Ching-to for Chan Ping-to to rush in and score. The Rifles took the lead a minute later through Moore. Ten minutes before the end the Rifles suddenly produced an electrifying spasm to score three further points through Moore (2) and Docherty.

INTERPORT SOCCER IN MACAU TO-DAY

Under the management of Commissioner Gunner G. H. Warren, R. N. and accompanied by Mr. C. D. Carter, Hon. Secretary of the Hong Kong Football Association, the Hong Kong junior Interport soccer team left for Macau this morning, where they will play the first Interport match between the two ports.

The team is composed of the most part of Servicemen, with the exception of four civilians, and is under the captaincy of J. B. Gon-salves, of Recreio, a former First Division player.

The following have been chosen to represent Hong Kong:—

Stranwell (Rifles); D. W. Willis (Kowloon); C. Cleary (Fusiliers); M. Purvis (Club); Spiers (Seafarths); and Dowell (Engineers); J. R. Gon-salves (Recreio); Sumner (Stonecutters); Harrison (Medicals); Lam Pook-chi (Kowloon Chinese) and Brewer (Navy).

Reserves:—Duffield (Ordnance); Lewis (Stonecutters); Boyd (Rifles) and Blackmore (Lyemun).

Gomes Thwarts Fusiliers

The large attendance at Chatham Road yesterday afternoon adequately emphasised the interest attached to the Third Division soccer game between the Fusiliers and the Liga, a needle match in which the Fusiliers, if they had won, would have qualified as champions on the other hand, if Liga had taken both points, they would have placed themselves favourably for runners-up position.

As it was, the game ended in a draw of two goals-all, a most fitting result to a keen and highly thrilling struggle in which a high standard of football was maintained throughout.

In the last two minutes of the game, Jones, the Fusiliers' outside-right, scored what looked to be the goal that would seal the fate of Liga, but the hopes of the soldiers' wildly excited supporters were short-lived, for straight from the kick off Liga smashed their way through the Fusilier defence and were awarded a penalty and from the kick, Gomes made no mistake to place his team on terms in the last 30 seconds.

The Fusilier halves, Morgan, Ken-neghan and Burton played an outstanding game throughout, more so in the first half, when they were sorely pressed for 30 minutes. The tricks of Santos C., combined with the long swinging passes of Ablong at outside-left and the determined leadership of Santos H., made the Liga a formidable force indeed, and had it not been for exceptionally smart work in goal by Manchipp on numerous occasions during the first

CLUB'S BAD LUCK

The Club were well beaten by R. A. Lyemun in a Second Division encounter at the Valley, the Gunners collecting a half-dozen before the interval and one after to win by seven clear goals.

Stevens received a nasty bump in a scramble in the goal-mouth and was forced to give over his charge to Fowler and assume the role of right-back, where, incidentally, he acquitted himself in commendable manner. This blow was followed by another upset for the Club when Krilovsky had to leave the field with a bad leg injury, the home team having to play the major portion of the game with a depleted and re-shuffled team. The Artillery goal-scorers were Blackmore (3), Brown (2), Bedford (1) and Mackrill (1).

GRADIDGE "PARMAKER" GOLF CLUBS with NEW WHIP-CONTROL and RHYTHMIC MASTER TRUE TEMPER STEEL SHAFTS

The Whip-Control Shaft. The old-time craftsmen concentrated on putting the point of whip in the Hickory Shaft in a position suitable to each particular club—high in the Driving Irons, and lower in the Pitching Irons. Hitherto it has not been possible to reproduce this in the Steel Shaft. After intensive research Gradidges have evolved a new Steel Shaft which, by a patented method, embodies the same shifting control centre in which the old craftsmen specialised. The Whip-Control shaft combines, therefore, the skilled workmanship of the past with the mechanical accuracy of the present day.

The Rhythmic Shaft. Recommended to all those desiring extra length without undue hitting. The whip action is specially designed to be slow and there is not the vital necessity to swing unduly slowly. The suppleness under the hands combined with the whip of the shaft gives "fall" to the swing, and the speed of the Club-head is markedly accelerated at the moment of impact.

Successes gained by Gradidge Clubs during 1936 include:—

- British Ladies' Open Championship
- American Ladies' Open Championship
- Scottish Open Championship
- Irish Open Championship
- British Open Championship, 2nd.

SHE COULD EAT NOTHING

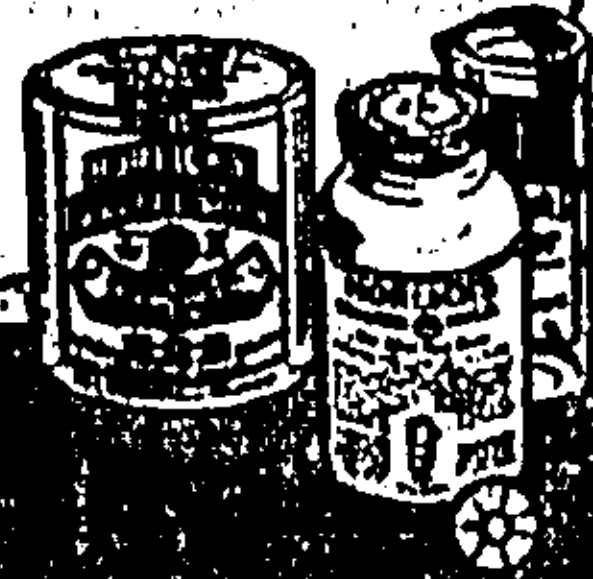

When convalescence is slow

IT is so often a problem what to give the invalid; it is difficult to tempt the appetite, and yet nourishment is vital. Horlick's has been recommended in illness and convalescence by Doctors for over 50 years because it so admirably fulfils requirements. It is light and easily digested, placing no strain on the system. It is 100% nourishment, is quickly assimilated and helps to replace wasted tissue. Horlick's has an intriguing flavour and appeals to the fabled palate when all other food is refused.

Horlick's is now also available in hermetically sealed vacuum tins which keep the contents fresh indefinitely. The tins contain more powder than the bottles. Prices are lower.

Extra delicious when prepared with the Horlick's Mixer.

HORLICK'S

W. S. SHERLEY & CO., 20, Queen's Road, Central, Hong Kong.

ONCE there was a family ghost by the name of Lady Elizabeth Jessingham. She had been murdered by her husband Lord George Jessingham for good and sufficient reason in 1478 and after she had got over the shock of her death had taken to haunting the family mansion. She had thought it was the least she could do for a family which she had disgraced. She was a good and efficient haunter and the family were well satisfied with her.

Well the first three hundred years were easy but then the Jessinghams had a row with the king who seized Jessingham Towers and cut Lord Hugh Jessingham's head off. Lady Jessingham and her young son escaped and emigrated to America, and Lady Elizabeth went long. During the next hundred and fifty years she followed the fortunes of the family haunting in succession a variety of houses in Boston, Providence and finally New York. Her haunting was usually done in a very distinguished manner with charming and mournful-eyed appearances in trailing draperies and without sound effects such as groans or screams though she could be vulgar enough on occasion as for instance when the family did not pay her the respect or attention which she felt was due her. Then she would curse them in words that would make an admiral blench for she had a store of early English invective of an incredible coarseness learned from the Jessinghams and their house guests over several centuries. But on the whole she gave satisfaction for there was nothing slipshod about her haunting and she always appeared at least once every night.

The last house that Lady Elizabeth haunted was on East 54th Street. Then on the death of his parents in 1914 Edward George Jessingham VI moved into an apartment on Park Avenue. He was handsome and had plenty of money and if life was real life was earnest the fact had somehow escaped him. Still he was at times aware of a faint uneasiness which he thought was ambition though it may just as well have been acidosis or one of those things you read about in the backs of magazines. At such times he would wonder vaguely if he oughtn't perhaps to go into something.

Well one night Edward had a headache and came home early and as he let himself in he saw Lady Elizabeth glide into the hall. He waved his hand to her and went into his bedroom and shut the door but she seemed through the keyhole and said Edward I must speak to you. Edward had thrown off his coat and vest and was slipping off his suspenders. Shoot he said. Kindly observe the proprieties said Lady Elizabeth for this is serious. Edward said Can't it wait? I've got a headache, but she said No, so he put on his coat and sighed and sat down and then she told him that she was going to change her methods of haunting.

She said it is perfectly useless for me to go on haunting this apartment for even when you are in town you never get home before daylight and she said it is undignified for me to keep on appearing night after night to empty rooms where there is no one to frighten or impress.

So along toward midnight every night Lady Elizabeth began appearing wherever Edward happened to be. But at first nobody paid much attention to her. A lady who glides moaning through the bar of an exclusive restaurant or sweeps silently through a group of gap people at a penthouse party does not attract much notice no matter how archaic her costume. But Lady Elizabeth was equal to that. She began to do her gliding a good foot above the floor and she soon found that that caused quite a lot of terror. She panicked three or four good parties and caused two conversions and any amount of assorted hysterics.

At first nobody connected the ghost with Edward. He paid no attention to her when she appeared and of course she never spoke directly to him unless they were alone. But pretty soon people began to notice that it was only when he was around that there were phenomena. And at last a couple of his friends came to see him about it. For not only were a lot of his acquaintances going on the water wagon but servants were giving notice in droves. A joke's a joke they said but it's got to stop. It isn't a joke said Edward. It's our family ghost. Well whatever it is they said we don't like it and you quit.

Well Edward knew there was no use arguing with Lady Elizabeth,

The Jessingham Ghost

By WALTER BROOKS

She only got mad and make him listen to a lot of Tudor bad language and then like as not turn into a black dog and howl all night. And he was wondering what he had better do when Parris Hawtrey called up and said she had just got back from somewhere or other and would he come out to Long Island for the week-end.

There wasn't much of Parris but what there was was just pure flame as far as Edward was concerned. She had a face and figure as delicate as porcelain and a will of chilled steel. What she wanted she got. Edward hoped she would let him and had given her an option but she had a lot more options on file. Anyway he went.

Well everything went fine. Parris had made up her mind that Edward was what she needed and before the evening was over she told him so. But when he was dressing next morning a note from her was brought to him and it said Come to my room I have something to say to you.

Well Edward's heart began to stop around in his chest like a frog in a barrel and he ran down the hall and tapped and went in. Parris was sitting up in bed and she said I've ordered your car brought round and you can pack up and get out. Edward started a wise-crack and then he saw how big her pupils were and he stopped and said Why you mean it! You bet I mean it! said Parris O you needn't look so innocent I saw her myself. Saw who? said Edward and Parris said That girl going into your room last night I suppose she was one of the maids for nobody else would wear a nightgown like that. And then Edward laughed and said Why that was Lady Elizabeth. But Parris thought he was trying to be funny and she jumped out of bed looking very pretty but mad and grabbed a thermos jug and threw it at him. And she said You get out of here before I kill you.

Now the code for family ghosts is pretty strict. It is not the thing to appear during daytime except when a member of the family is in grave peril. As to what constitutes peril it is up to the ghost to decide. This looked a lot like peril to Lady Elizabeth for in her day when people said "kill" they meant it so she materialized at once in the corner of the room and gave a groan.

Parris looked round and said Why are you here? How did you get in here? And then she said Why you're the one! Yes said Lady Elizabeth I am the Jessingham family ghost. O yeah? said Parris Then get ready to do your stuff for if you're not out of here in three seconds I am going to throw this glass at you. But Lady Elizabeth just smiled in a superior way and said As you will madam. So Parris throw the glass and it went right through the wall and Parris stared for a moment and then flung herself at Edward and clung to him with her nose in his neck. So Edward didn't think that he had to do anything and he just clung back.

Well this isn't getting us anywhere said Lady Elizabeth and if you will listen to me a moment madam. So Parris shuddered a little and then Lady Elizabeth went on and explained to her about her position in the Jessingham family and the haunting code and so on. And she said I gather that my young descendant wants to marry you and I wish you to know that I have no objection to you. O haven't you! said Parris taking her nose out of Edward's neck. Well I have to you. Why she said we could never be alone together with you popping in at all hours of the night. You'll soon get used to me said Lady Elizabeth. O no I won't said Parris for I am not going to marry a man who can't even go to bed without having his great-grandmother in the room. For that's what it amounts to she said. It is one of the burdens of high lineage said Lady Elizabeth. Then somebody else can bear it said Parris for noblesse oblige is all right but it has no place on a honeymoon.

Well Edward went back to town and he was pretty glad and why wouldn't he be? But there must be some way of getting rid of that old hellion. So he went home and thought. He wasn't used to thinking and it gave him a headache but he kept right on and finally an idea rose to the surface with a plop. And that night he went out and got thoroughly boiled and picked a fight in a restaurant and hit a waiter and then he tied a napkin around his head and called the faithful to prayer from the top of his table. And when he got home the next day after paying his fine he put a compress on his eye and went straight to bed.

Well he was worn out and he slept right through dinner time but a little before midnight he woke up. And there was Lady Elizabeth and she was smiling at him. It was the first time he had ever seen her smile. And she said Bravo my boy a true Jessingham. Eh? said Edward. You reminded me so much last night of my dear husband she said. Or even of Fulk fourth Lord Jessingham. He used to beat up the watch regularly once a week. Eh it reminds me of old times. But Edward gave a groan and turned over and closed his eyes.

But just the same he didn't give up hope and he thought some more.

Well it took him a week to think of something but he did finally. It came to him all at once one evening as he was starting out to dine with Mrs. Hamerton Giles. And he went back and changed his white tie for a black one and then he thought a few minutes and took off his black shoes and put brown ones on. And then he went and borrowed something from the elevator boy. And then he went.

Well it was a large dinner party and quite a high-grade one too for Mrs. Hamerton Giles was a social climber who had recently arrived and so all her guests were irreproachable. And so when Edward appeared they all even Mrs. Hamerton Giles who was a lady by conviction if not by birth beamed as if nothing dreadful had happened. The drawing room was like a dungeon of the French Terror when the jaffer arrives tick off the condemned for the day.

They were all quiveringly aware of Edward but they went right on with their talk as if he didn't exist. And Mrs. Hamerton Giles gave him a cold nod and slipped out to change his place at table.

Well this wasn't much fun but Edward was determined to do the thing right and so at dinner he committed as many small solecisms as possible. Of course he didn't whoosh his soup or tuck his napkin under his chin or cut with his knife for then he would be in danger of becoming a gentleman again. It is difficult to steer the middle course that constitutes complete vulgarity. But he twice used the wrong spoon and he wiped his face with his napkin. And between courses he picked his teeth. He had decided against that at first but then he thought if he did it behind his napkin it was the thing to do.

Well the whole dinner went on that way and nobody even looked at Edward though he had known most of them for years. After dinner there was music but Edward waited only long enough to blow his nose just as Madame Pellagra was reaching for a high one and to compliment Mrs. Hamerton Giles loudly on the beauty of her curtains which he called drapes and then he went home.

About an hour after he got there Lady Elizabeth showed up. She didn't say anything. She just hovered in a dark corner and looked at his shoes and at his tie and there was so much horror and disgust in her expression that almost told her the truth. For after all she was his grandmother a couple of dozen times removed. But he thought of Parris and hardened his heart and he took off his coat and sat there in his shirt-sleeves. And he had on pink above garters. And Lady Elizabeth began to flap and shake. If she was hanging on the line in a thunderstorm and then she gave a terrible deep groan and vanished.

Well Edward waited a week because he wanted to be sure. But Lady Elizabeth didn't come back. So he went out and told Parris and she said O K and the next month they were married. Edward was sure that he had got rid of her at last. But he hadn't. For when Edward George Jessingham VII was born she came back and began haunting him. But Parris didn't care any more.

NINE YEARS OF STOMACH TROUBLE

"Can eat and drink anything now"

For nine long years Mr. H. suffered the agony and torture of stomach trouble. For nine years he searched for a cure in vain. Yet only a trial course of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder made him so much better that he feels as though he is "in heaven!" Read his amazing letter:

"For nine years I have been under doctors and several times in hospital, but got no satisfaction until a friend told me of a bad case which Maclean Brand Stomach Powder had cured. So I decided to give it a trial, and everyone is amazed at the difference in me. I can eat and drink anything now, and feel as if I am in heaven—after suffering so long it does not seem true!"

Such an experience as this must convince you that Maclean Brand can bring you the relief you long for. Get a bottle to-day, but refuse to have anything to do with cheap substitutes which have arisen through its wonderful record. Ask for Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, and see that the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" is on the bottle and carton. Never sold loose. Also in tablet form.

BRIDGE NOTES

MODERNITY AT BRIDGE!

(BY ELY CULBERTSON)

I have high regard for the integrity of most people. I believe that, given half a chance, an overwhelming majority of men, and women, too, clings tightly to the old-fashioned virtues. But, it must be admitted, every once in a while something happens in my own field of bridge to make me pause and wonder.

The latest cause for scepticism came about through a telephone call. A woman, whose voice proclaimed her at once cultured, young, and beautiful, wanted to know whether she had to pay the usual two trick penalty for a revoke which she had called on herself. I answered, rather fulsomely, "Yes, it doesn't matter who called the revoke. Your only reward for honesty at bridge is a consciousness of virtue."

"Oh, that!" she sniffed, and hung up!

West opened the jack of hearts, dummy played low, and East signalled with the eight spot. A heart continuation went to East's queen, and then the ace of diamonds was played. When West followed to this trick with the deuce East switched back to the ace of hearts.

At this point the declarer found himself in somewhat of a dilemma. Already having lost three tricks it was vital to pick up the spade queen. Not being in the fortunate position of the readers of this article, who can clearly see that the queen was held twice guarded by the West hand, the declarer had to consider

Economical Desserts can be so Gay and Colourful

By FRANCES LEE BARTON

Most Attractive Dishes Often Least Expensive, as These Recipes Show

What do desserts make you think of? Something expensive—something hard to prepare? And do you think you can't serve tasty, tempting desserts very often just because the food budget is limited? Then you've got a lot of pleasant surprises in store for you! For I'm going to give you some dessert recipes that are not only delicious, colourful, and attractive, but economical as well.

You can make the finest desserts you ever saw with Jell-O. Desserts worthy of the most experienced chef. And Jell-O is so easy to work with, and needs so little preparation, that you can put these desserts together in practically no time at all. For the first one let's take an old favourite:

Deep Dish Banana Dessert

1 package Lemon Jell-O
1 pint warm water
8 bananas
1½ cups cream, whipped
1½ teaspoon salt

1. Dissolve Jell-O in warm water. Chill. When cold and syrupy, pour 1½ of Jell-O into deep glass dish. Slice 2 bananas into this Jell-O and fold in carefully. Chill. Place remaining Jell-O in bowl of cracked ice or ice water and whip with rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Mash remaining banana with silver fork and fold into whipped Jell-O. Fold in whipped cream and salt. Pipe onto chilled Jell-O in dish. Chill until firm. Serve 8.

Just serve any of these desserts once, and you'll know that delicious, attractive desserts don't have to be expensive.

Cardinal Pear Mould

1 package Cherry Jell-O

1½ cups warm water

1½ cups sliced pear juice

1½ teaspoon powdered ginger

1½ teaspoon salt

1. Dissolve Jell-O in warm water. Add pear juice, ginger, and salt. Turn into individual moulds. Chill until firm. Unmould. Garnish with sections of pears. Serve 4.

This one takes a little more time, but is well worth the effort.

IT DOESN'T pay to gamble on unsafe tires when Goodrich Safety Silvertowns give you these two extra features.

1. Golden Ply Blow-Out Protection. This amazing new invention, the Life-Saver Golden Ply is built into every Goodrich Silvertown to give you the protection you need from dangerous high speed blow-outs.

2. Silvertown Safety Tread Skid Protection. The Silvertown Safety Tread works on the same principle as your windshield wiper. The three big center ribs sweep away water at the first sign of a skid. In this way the big double outer row of sturdy Silvertown cleats have a drier surface to grip and you are protected against "tailspin" skids.

Play safe, get a set of Silvertowns on your car today.

M. VAN ZEELAND'S MISSION

AUSTRALIA TO SET
NEW POLICY ON MANDATES

URGED UPON THE PREMIER

London, Yesterday.
"The mandated territories should be opened completely for world trade and Australia should set an example by throwing open the mandated territories assigned to her."

This is part of a memorandum addressed to the Australian Prime Minister, Mr. J. A.
Lyons, who is now in London for the Coronation, by a number of Australian politicians and economists.

The proposal, says the memorandum, should be submitted by Mr.
Lyons to the Imperial Conference which is to be held after the Coronation.

The memorandum adds that exploitation of the economic possibilities of the territories should only be granted after certain concessions had been made in the field of disarmament.—Trans-Ocean.

NEW GAS FOR

German Experiments Succeed

Hamelin, Yesterday.

The town of Hamelin, of mythical Pied Piper fame, has been the scene of a series of experiments by German chemists designed to render innocuous the gas used in households for cooking and other purposes.

A new gas has been discovered, says an announcement, which will take a lot of worry from the shoulders of housewives.

It is entirely free from poisonous qualities and can be inhaled in any amount without the slightest injury.—Trans-Ocean.

DRUG TRAFFIC

League Board Studies Situation

Geneva, Yesterday.

At the 30th session of the Permanent Central Board, Mr. Lyall (Britain) was re-elected Chairman and a new member Sr. Saens (Uruguay) was welcomed.

The Board examined the progress report and statistics regarding the import and export of dangerous drugs during 1936.

It was observed that there are now 58 ratifications of the 1936
Geneva Convention and 61 of the limitation convention of 1931.—

ON OFFICIAL VISIT TO AMERICA

Mr. Cordell Hull's Wry Comment

BRUSSELS, YESTERDAY.
THE PREMIER, M. PAUL
VAN ZEELAND, IS TO PAY
AN OFFICIAL VISIT TO THE
UNITED STATES IN JUNE, SAYS AN OFFICIAL AN-NOUNCEMENT.

This is regarded here as another step in the Premier's economic investigations, requested by Britain and France, and considerable importance is attached to the visit.

In Paris, the "Tempe" learns that the Belgian Premier will discuss the possibilities of world economic revival with President Roosevelt.

He will also receive an honorary degree from Princeton University.
—Trans-Ocean.

Washington, Yesterday.

Confirmation of the visit of M.
van Zeeland to Washington in July is forthcoming in official circles here, which state that the Belgian Premier will presumably discuss the question of lowering tariff barriers.

He will interview President
Roosevelt and the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, on the matter, though the official version of the visit is that he is coming to the United States to receive an honorary degree from Princeton University.

Mr. Cordell Hull to-day stated that he will deliver his "usual" speech on the lowering of tariffs
if M. van Zeeland cares to listen.
—Reuter.

TALKS INITIATED

Brussels, Yesterday.

M. van Zeeland's investigation of the possibilities of a general reduction of tariffs, undertaken at the request of Britain and France, is already in full progress, according to an announcement here to-day.

The Premier has commissioned the former Councillor to the Austrian National Bank, Mr. Morris, to instigate preparatory work.

Mr. Morris has already conferred in London with the economic adviser to the British Government, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, and representatives of the Foreign Office and Exchequer.

Next Monday Mr. Morris will visit Paris, after which his investigations will take him to various other countries.—Trans-Ocean.

LOCAL ESTATE

The late Mrs. Gladys Darling
Lee Warner, who died at Peter's
House, Bungay, Suffolk, on August 29, last left local estate to the value of $115,500.

On the application of Mr. G. G.
N. Tinson, lawful attorney, sealing the certified copy of Probate of the Will has been granted.

Goering's New Visit To Mussolini

Berlin, Yesterday.
It is now definitely learned that the Reich Air Minister, General Hermann Goering, will confer with Signor Mussolini
some time this month.
General Goering will go to Italy following the visit there of his wife, who is suffering from an illness.—Trans-Ocean.

TOMMY FARR'S NEW AMBITION

LONDON REPORTS

Berlin, Yesterday.

The Manager of Tommy Farr, the British and Empire heavyweight champion, who has just beaten the American Maxie Baer, is making plans for a world title fight in England between James J.
Braddock, the present World Champion, and Farr.

So declares the London correspondent of the "12 Uhr Blatt," the Berlin sports paper.

The correspondent adds, however, that Farr has already decided to go to the United States, and will probably leave before the end of this month.

The same paper publishes a statement made by Braddock to the effect that he will defend his title against Joe Louis, the Detroit negro, on June 22 at Comiskey Park, and that he will ignore all other offers.—Trans-Ocean.

Street Singer

H.E. The O.A.G. At Final Performance

The Hong Kong Philharmonic
Society last night brought to a successful conclusion their presentation of the "Street Singer," the packed house including His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, Mr. N. L.
Smith accompanied by Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith, and H. E. the G.O.C., Major General A. W.
Bartholomew and Mrs. Bartholomew.

Following the grand finale, the ladies of the cast were presented with a wealth of floral tributes as well as many other gifts.

The majority of the cast then repaired to the Hong Kong Hotel, where celebrations were carried on until far into the morning.

Celluloid Bullets For Parisian Riots

Paris, Yesterday.

The Paris police are determined to be up to date in dealing with street riots.

They have just purchased four tanks. These tanks, about the size of a Paris bus and with a speed of 25 miles an hour, are armed with a battery of machine-guns, each of which can fire 100 celluloid missiles a minute.

Although harmless, the "bullets" are extremely effective in dispersing mobs.

The tanks will also contain apparatus for spraying a mixture of sand and tear gas, as well as equipment for discharging a smokescreen.—Trans-Ocean.

GUESTS OF MADRID PARLIAMENT

ORGANISATION PLANNING RELIEF

VALENCIA, YESTERDAY.
A DELEGATION OF BRIT-ISH WOMEN MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT, HEADED BY THE CONSERVATIVE DUCH-ESS OF ATHOLL AND THE SOCIALIST, MISS ELLEN
WILKINSON, WAS RECEIV-ED BY THE SPANISH PRE-MIER, SENOR LARGO
CABALLERO, HERE YES-TERDAY.

The delegation is visiting Spain in order to examine the situation with regard to the founding of a relief organisation for wounded soldiers and the civil population.

Senor Caballero, says a communique issued after the interview, told the delegation that Spain, at the conclusion of the civil war, would decide what form of government she wanted.

PARLIAMENTARY SYSTEM
The new Spanish State would be a democracy with a parliament, while religious freedom would be completely restored.

The British women delegates were guests at luncheon yesterday of the Spanish Parliament.
Among others attending were the Foreign Minister, Senor Alvarez del Vayo, and the British charge d'affaires.

The delegation later left for Madrid.—Trans-Ocean.

EUROPE TO U.S.
AND BACK IN FIVE DAYS

HINDENBURG'S NEW SCHEDULE

Berlin, Yesterday.

A five-day schedule between Germany and New York and return will be maintained during the Summer by the dirigible Hindenburg, according to a time table just published by the Zeppelin Company.

This will make it possible for a traveller to leave Frankfurt-on-Main on a Friday, spend Sunday in New York and arrive back in Frankfurt on Tuesday.

The Hindenburg will make eighteen return trips to America between May and October this year, as compared with only ten last year.

The dirigible will remain at Lakehurst, New Jersey, only ten or twelve hours before beginning the return journey to Germany, and the interval at Frankfurt will be reduced to two days so that a weekly schedule can be maintained.—Trans-Ocean.

LECTURE BY DR. J.
SHERRY

An interesting lecture on "Lourdes" was given by Dr. J. Sherry at the Wah Yan College last evening, in the College Hall, which was crowded with present and past students.

In the course of his talk, Dr.
Sherry stated that there was no hospital in Lourdes. Patients were cured by the water, and were cured instantly. Apparently incurable cases were sometimes remedied by faith.

Illustrations were thrown on a screen to support the speaker's statements.

At the conclusion of the talk,
Dr. Sherry was thanked by the Provost, Fr. Gallagher, after which the company were entertained by a concert by the students.

Berlin, Yesterday.
The Italian youth leader, Signor
Ricci, is expected to arrive in Munich on April 25 on a visit to the Reich youth leader, Count Baldur von Schirach.
Signor Ricci will remain in Germany till May 3 and will carry out a
